Truman Demands WPB Shake-Up

SENATOR ASKS CHANGES IN MEN, METHODS

Committee Report Charges 'Damaging Delay' in Plant Conversions.

RAPS 'DOLLAR MEN'

Chairman Urges Bigger Place For Labor, Small Business in War Production Set-up.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A demand for changes in men and methods of the War Production Board came today from Chairman Truman (D., Mo.) of the special senate committee investigating national defense as he issued a report criticizing what the committee termed "damaging delay" in the conversion of major civilian industries to war purposes.

"The WPB has not fully measured up to this responsibility," Truman said in a statement.

He went on to say that "fulfillment of this responsibility will require a change in both the organization and personnel of some branches and divisions in the WPB."

The 32-page printed report upheld part of the charges made against WPB by Robert P. Guthrie, who resigned March 14 from the WPB executive staff with a protest that some dollar-a-year men had impeded the war production program because of private interests.

Recommending additional restrictions upon big business executives now serving in the war production effort, the senate committee said it believed that "the Guthrie case points to the conclusion that certain dollar-a-year men within the bureau of industry branches (of WPB) are unable to divorce themselves from their subconscious gravitation to their own industries."

Senators said these conclusions were based upon both public and closed hearings into charges made by Guthrie and others. Included were details and critical surveys of various industries.

The senate conclusions differed widely from an earlier report by a house military affairs subcommittee which commended efforts of the dollar-a-year men and said Guthrie's charges lacked proof other than as evi-

DIES AT FRONT

French Fascist's Son Succumbs While Helping Nazis.

VICHY, France —(AP)— The French Fascist party leader Jacques Doriot's son Francois died on the Russian front where he was serving in the French volunteer legion with the German army, it was disclosed today.

Wife Stabbed 7 Times; Dies Mate Jailed

Wounded Woman Falls In Yard at Home Near Empire Steel.

John Johnson, 42, colored steel worker, was held by Richland county authorities today in the fatal stabbing of his estranged wife, Mary, 28, last night in the kitchen at the wife's home on Bowman street near the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company plant.

Sheriff Frank E. Robinson, who found Johnson hiding in the basement at a friend's home shortly after the stabbing, attributed the murder to jealousy. The couple had lived apart for nearly two years and Johnson recently had attempted to effect a reconciliation, the sheriff said.

Johnson's brother-in-law, John Richardson, 24, who lived at the home where the stabbing occurred, chased Johnson from the house, knocked him down, and then followed him to the steel mill lawn and back to a nearby tavern where Johnson eluded him, officers related. Johnson then fled to a home at 711 Bowman street where the sheriff found him.

Stabbed seven times in the chest and abdomen with a large pocketknife, Mrs. Johnson collapsed in the yard at her home at 823 Bowman street and died a few minutes later, Coroner L. B. McCullough said. She was dead on arrival at General hospital.

Mrs. Johnson lived with her widowed mother, Mrs. Nora Richardson, and her brother, John Richardson. Johnson gave his address as 534 Central avenue.

Johnson told Sheriff Robinson and Acting Prosecutor John C. O'Donnell that he went to the Richardson home about 9:30 last night to see his wife and found her in the living room, seated on the arm of a chair occupied by James Howard Reid, 31, colored, a boarder in the home. Reid is held in the county jail as a material witness to the stabbing.

Johnson related that he called his wife into the kitchen where an argument started. The stabbing followed, the sheriff said.

Mrs. Richardson, the victim's mother, told the sheriff she heard her daughter scream and ran into the kitchen and saw Mrs. Johnson holding onto a chair. The

DRIVE SPURRED

Rubber Scrap Heaps Growing Higher at Gas Stations.

Piles of scrap rubber at filling stations in the Mansfield area continued to grow high today as city and county residents increased their efforts to cooperate with President Roosevelt by turning in their old rubber supplies.

Old tires, tubes, garden hose, boots, and hot water bottles were stacked at virtually every gasoline station in the city and outlying districts. Persons who turn in the material receive a penny a pound for it.

The campaign here is showing better results as the drive progresses, leaders said. No estimate was available today of the amount of scrap materials turned in, but many tons have already been collected. The campaign continues until June 30. The results will help the government reach a decision on nation-wide gasoline rationing to conserve rubber.

Bottom photo shows this same carrier still executing turns, but now in her death throes as direct hits have set her ablaze from bow to stern. An idea of the ferocity of the bombing may be gained from the number of bombs which are seen missing their mark and falling around the carrier.

The charges will be reviewed by the five-member board at the Richland county courthouse.

The hearing is scheduled for 9 a. m.

FIRE DESTROYS WAR MATERIALS

Flames Sweep Five Railroad Cars on Loudonville Siding.

Five carloads of paper, rags, rubber and metal were destroyed last night by fire of undetermined origin which swept through cars on a Pennsylvania railorad siding near the Loudonville Iron and Metal company on Mt. Vernon avenue in Loudonville.

The fire broke out about 5 p. m. and was still smoldering today at 1:30 p. m. Company officials reported that a large number of old automobile tires was burned.

Completing the normal four-year academy course a year ahead of time, they're members of the first class in history to graduate under the new telescoped study program. The 1943 class numbers 615.

One Ohioan scheduled for a commission is Roger Elmore Spreen, former Sidney high school football, basketball and tennis star.

STUDIES TAXES

House Group Studies Nelson Plan, Ups Newspaper Costs.

WASHINGTON — The house ways and means committee today was studying a proposal by WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson that the tentatively approved levy on excess profits be cut from 94 to 80 per cent. Nelson declared the higher tax threatened to impair war effort.

Yesterday the committee boosted second-class postal rates for newspapers and periodicals by $78,000,000 to eliminate a government subsidy. Exempt from the increase were newspapers and other publications mailed to subscribers in the county where they are printed.

The committee also agreed to impose excise taxes on pari-mutuel betting and amusement devices. Remaining to be acted on are proposals for excise levies on soft drinks, candy and chewing gum.

INCREASE SUGAR STAMP RATIONS

Stamp No. 4 Good for 1 Pound, Next Two Can Purchase 2 Pounds Under Ruling.

Mansfield housewives were called upon today by the Office of Price Administration to use their pantries as "little warehouses" for sugar with the announcement that although individual sugar rations will not be increased, they will be allowed to purchase a month's supply at a time.

The new order will go into effect on June 28. Ration Stamp No. 4 is good for one pound of sugar over the two-week period expiring June 27. Stamp No. 5 will then become valid for the purchase of two pounds of sugar from June 28 to July 25, and Stamp No. 6 will be good for two pounds from July 28 through Aug. 22.

Price administration experts said that the move was made to help empty bulging sugar warehouses by permitting housewives to buy sugar quotas ahead of time.

A plan is being considered under which Mansfield housewives

Buy Coal Now or Shiver This Fall Ickes Warns U. S.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— If Mr. and Mrs. America don't get busy and have their coal bins filled up, they're tempting the possibility of heatless houses next winter, with fuel not to be had for love nor money.

That was the warning of fuel coordinator Harold L. Ickes who said today the nation was not providing itself with full protection against coal shortages despite the government's repeated urging that all consumers "buy coal now."

Ickes' aides already are at work on an emergency coal allocation program, against the possibility that the war haulage burden on transportation systems may cause coal shortages.

The coordinator said each householder should put in his entire winter's supply this summer, if possible, and he said he thought supplies adequate for 60 to 90 days were not too much for the ordinary industrial consumer to have on hand. Vital war industries and utilities, he added, ought to carry coal enough to last at least 120 days.

NAZIS CLAIM CAPTURE OF CRIMEA FORT

Communique Says Attackers Break Ring of Defenses Around Soviet Port.

2 MILES FROM HARBOR

Russians Say Savage Thrusts Beaten Off, U. S. Planes Help Defenders.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters asserted today that German siege armies storming Sevastopol had captured Fort Maxim Gorky and driven within two miles of the harbor entrance.

The Nazi claim of having knifed into Sevastopol's ring of fortifications was unconfirmed elsewhere, the Russians declaring they had beaten off a series of savage new attacks.

"In the battle for Sevastopol," a German communique said, "German infantry and engineers, effectively supported by concentric artillery fire and Luftwaffe operations, stormed the main forts in the northern part of the defense system, including Maxim Gorky fort, most modern and strongest bastion of the whole fortress.

"In this sector of the front, the attack was carried forward to a point only three kilometers (two miles) from the harbor entrance to the fortress.

"On the southern front of the fortress the Russians, despite stubborn resistance, were driven out of important positions by German and Rumanian troops.

"In the harbor districts stores and supply vessels of the enemy were destroyed by air attacks."

The communique said that on the central front before Moscow German troops continued mopping up Russian forces which had been operating in the rear of the German lines.

Russian attacks along the Volkhov river front southeast of Leningrad again were reported repulsed.

"In the harbor of Murmansk," the communique said, "German dive bombers raided enemy supply steamers. German fighters escorting the Stukas shot down 11 enemy fighters."

Soviet front-line dispatches said hundreds of German dead and burned-out tanks littered the slopes before Sevastopol, and Stockholm reports said United States-built Consolidated Liberator bombers were aiding Sevastopol's defenders.

On the Kharkov front, Soviet

ALL QUALIFY

Election Board Approves 20 Nominating Petitions.

The Richland county board of elections last night qualified all of the 20 candidates for county and district offices who have filed petitions with the board.

Meeting in special session, the board checked the validity of signatures on the petitions. A few names were ruled out, but every candidate was left with enough to entitle him to a place on the August primary ballot.

The board ruled out three of the 10 signatures obtained in Richland county by Herbert Hoover of Akron, seeking the Republican nomination for governor.

Hoover's candidacy has been challenged by Mahoning county Republican leaders who contend he is not using his legal name. It was also reported in Columbus that Hoover may not have the necessary number of signatures when all the county election boards have ruled out those that are invalid.

Ashlander Flew Plane In Oil Raid

An Ashland flier who enlisted in the army air corps 16 months ago, was one of the American pilots, now interned in Turkey, who a week ago bombed Rumanian oil fields in the first direct blow reported against Axis-held territory by United States forces.

He is Lieut. Howard Walker, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Walker, a pilot, now acting commander of an interned group of 15 who landed four giant bombers on Turkish soil when the ships ran short of fuel.

Lieut. Walker, whose wife, Betty Jean, also resides in Ashland, enlisted in the air corps Jan. 28, 1941. His wife and parents last heard from him June 8, when they received a letter written May 31 in Egypt.

A native of Ashland, Lieut. Walker graduated from Ashland high school and attended Ashland college and Purdue university. He received his primary flight training in Georgia and was commissioned at Barksdale field, Pa.

Dispatches from Ankara, Turkey, reported that the great consolidated B-24 four-motored planes caused enormous fires and damage, which would take the Germans months to make good, in raids on the Ploesti oil fields 100 miles north of Bucharest.

Four of the 15 U. S. planes landed in Turkey; one dropped out over the Balkans or the Black sea, as the result of enemy fire or fuel shortage.

But 10 returned to Allied territory, including some which landed in Free French Syria.

The 15 planes took off from an airdrome in Egypt before dawn Friday. Some of the crews had been flown from the United States only about two weeks before. They flew across the Mediterranean and the Aegean and over enemy Bulgaria, almost 1,000

LOUDONVILLE GIRL KILLED

Three Companions Injured, One Seriously, When Car Skids, Rolls Over.

LOUDONVILLE — A 14-year-old Loudonville girl was instantly killed, and three companions were injured, one seriously, at midnight yesterday, when the car in which they were riding skidded and turned over at Mohicanville, eight miles northeast of here.

Ashland county sheriff's deputies said Donna Mae Baker, an eighth grade pupil, died of a fractured neck when she was thrown from the machine.

Driver of the automobile, Eugene Eggerton, 16, of Perrysville, officers said, is in Samaritan hospital at Ashland. He suffered a chest injury. Attendants at noon today said his condition was "fair."

Other two occupants of the machine were Alvena Leatherow, 14, of nearby McKay, and Charles Kiner, 16, of Perrysville. They received lacerations and bruises.

Deputies said the car rolled over an embankment, after skidding 100 feet when young Eggerton attempted to avoid a collision with another machine. The accident occurred at the intersection of a county road and state route 179.

The Baker girl is survived by her mother, Mrs. Erma Garnes of Loudonville; her father, Lee Baker of Akron, and asster, Betty, at home.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at Zion Lutheran church. Rev. J. H. Kuhlman will officiate. Plans for burial are incomplete.

LIBYAN ARMY SPLIT IN TWO, NAZIS BOAST

Declare Axis Tanks Pursue One British Column Toward Bardia.

DESERT FORTS TAKEN

Other Half of Empire Force Reported Moving Back Near Siege Port.

(By Associated Press)

The German high command reported today that the British army in Libya had been split into two parts.

One part has fallen back on Tobruk, while strong German and Italian tank formations are pursuing other British forces fleeing in the direction of Bardia, the high command said.

Several desert forts in the southern perimeter of Tobruk's defenses have been captured, it added.

An earlier announcement said Axis forces had occupied a British base south of El Adem, 18 miles below Tobruk, and captured 500 prisoners.

British imperial headquarters acknowledged the withdrawal of British troops from both Sidi Rezegh and El Adem.

Sidi Rezegh is 25 miles southeast of Tobruk and 50 miles from the Egyptian frontier; El Adem is 18 miles due south of Tobruk.

An Italian war bulletin asserting that aerial reconnaissance disclosed the British were beginning a general withdrawal toward the Egyptian frontier.

Last year, the British withstood eight months of violent siege at the Mediterranean coastal fortress of Tobruk until relieved by a new expeditionary force striking out of Egypt.

The Reuters (British news agency) correspondent at Cairo, headquarters of Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's imperial command, said Tobruk was "practically surrounded," with the coastal road the only route left open to the east.

Despite Axis armored supremacy, the British declared they still maintained superiority in the air.

The setback at two vital points on the half-moon front apparently meant that the British were now falling back on Tobruk's main defense works, where British Tommies, Australians, New Zealanders and Indian troops made history with their stand against Axis siege armies last year.

THREAT REDUCED

Stimson Says Jap Losses Make West Coast Safer.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary of War Stimson said today the losses inflicted on the Japanese in the Pacific had temporarily but substantially reduced the threat of an attack on the Pacific coast which he has repeatedly said might be expected.

War and navy department information is, he said, that the Japanese thus far had made only a "very small landing" in the Aleutian islands off Alaska but he stressed that fog and unfavorable weather obscured developments in the north Pacific.

Information is still incomplete, the secretary also told his press conference, on the earlier air and sea engagement off Midway.

"The enemy fleet was scattered all over the Pacific ocean, hustling away as fast as it could in the opposite direction, without air protection," he added.

Richland Sailor Who Leaped From Lexington Arrives Home

A Richland county sailor who was in the midst of the great Coral sea battle and escaped from the aircraft carrier Lexington before it exploded was due to arrive in Mansfield late this afternoon for a brief visit with his parents.

The youth, believed the first to return to the Mansfield area from the Coral sea conflict, is Walter F. Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Duncan, of near Lucas.

Although relatives of the youth have little information about his narrow escape and experiences in one of the world's greatest sea battles, they learned he jumped from the crippled Lexington into the sea and was picked up by a U. S. destroyer.

It's still a mystery to them, however, how he was able to return to the United States so soon after the conflict. They have had no report as to whether he was wounded in action.

Young Duncan, who holds a seaman first class rating, enlisted in the navy March 25, 1941 and was stationed on the Lexington for 10 months. He was graduated from Ashland high school in 1936 and later was employed by the A. L. Garber company in Ashland. He received his seamanship training at the Great Lakes naval station and the Ford Naval Mechanics school in Detroit.

Members of his family, including a sister, Mrs. Frank Martin, Lucas R. D. 1, and a brother, Walter Duncan, Mansfield, learned that he was in Pearl Harbor last September. They lost trace of him then until he returned recently to the United States.

Fireworks Show Assured for Mansfield's July 4 Celebration

Despite the war, Mansfield will have a fireworks show staged each year by the Mansfield Park commission and park associations to celebrate the Fourth of July. What's more it will be done without destroying any vital war materials.

Edward Wyllie, president of the Mansfield Park commission, said today that park association workers had been given the go-ahead signal after being assured that the fireworks display would not interfere with the war program.

Plans for the exhibition are usually announced earlier in the year but Wyllie said that announcement was withheld this year because it was not certain whether fireworks could be obtained.

"We wanted to make sure that the use of fireworks would not take any vital materials away from the war effort," said Wyllie.

Harry Bowman, president of the Mansfield Parks associations, said that his group had received word from the fireworks manufacturers and government officials that the use of fireworks would not be detrimental to the war program.

"All materials in the fireworks we intend to use were manufactured a long time prior to the declaration of war," Bowman said

CHAPTER IX

It was the morning after Ronnie Farnsworth's odd proposal. Kay was in the Sweet Shop. A shipment of nut brittle had arrived and there was merchandising to be done. The matter of the green candy boxes had its effect on Mr. Lord. He wanted Kay's idea of a way to tempt his public with nut brittle.

"I'll have to think about it," she said, regarding the boxes of brittle with more concern than she had felt for so inanimate an object since she could remember. "If we could hit on something that would appeal to the imagination—a window display, a lure—a miniature orchard of walnut trees with tiny people harvesting the nuts—of course that is impossible. But that orchard, with a big mound of brittle in the center—oh, well, it's out. What do we know about English walnut orchards and where would we get them if we knew—on short order I mean?"

Lord chuckled.

"Good idea," he said, "but impracticable. We got to have ideas we can use. Tell you what I'll do. I'll put in this brittle without any thunder, just plain sell it. Make a special price on it. Meantime, Miss Kenyon, you think up something like that nut orchard we can get hold of and put in our window. What say?"

"I'll find it, Mr. Lord. I'll not stop until I do find it. When I do, will you let me do the window?"

"The window is yours. Remember though, we're just a small-town shop. We're not bigwigs or chain folks with money to spend like water. We have to make the pennies count and use our heads when we haven't the dollars."

"I'll remember." Kay went to the service pantry. There were the chicken salad rolls to do today for luncheon. Time does not wait. Now is the time. Ronnie's proposal. The end of struggle. The end of . . . struggle. Sorry. This bill is two months over-due. This bill is six months . . . . this bill is a year. Unless we hear from you by the tenth . . .

"Are we all set Susie?" Kay looked over the service supply.

Susie showed an expanse of white teeth and red gums.

"We'se all set, Miss Kay," she said.

"You hollowed out the rolls?"

"Yas ma'am. I holled 'em then I dug 'em out some more. We'se goin' to stuff 'em rolls plumb full o' chicken salad. I'se tasted the salad myse'f an' I'se tellin' you they ain't any folks had nothin' lak it in this dump befoh!"

"Susie! Dump?"

"I means in Mr. Lawd's pawhful Sweet Shop."

"Good for you Susie." Kay was stuffing rolls. "We're making this the most powerful shop in Somerset, if we have to lift it up by our bootstraps?"

"Bootstraps?" Susie's eyes rolled. "I never wears 'em Miss Kay. My ol' man, he slosh in rubber boots . . . 'scuse me Miss Kay. Heah come them ripe oilves you order, them black things all full o' pit. I puts two side a ev'ry chicken roll?"

"Yes, please Susie. Get them in the ice box. They must be cold."

"Yas'm. Wouldn't one do, bein' black an' full o' pits like they is."

"One would do, but two would do better, Susie, our celery!"

"Saints marchin'!" Susie scuffled through the packages on the service table. "Usin's salry. I done plumb 'scaped de salry."

"Put it in ice water quick." Kay had a stalk of it in her hand. "It must snap at you when you bite it."

"Lawd massy." Susie shook like a bowl of jelly. "When I gits snapped at by a salry, dats de time Susie take a bus."

It was shortly before twelve noon. The luncheon crowd would begin straggling in any moment now. Time to slip into the ruffled muslin that had been her mother's in those bright days of a happy girlhood. The muslin was fine and white, spriggled with yellow rose buds. Years had not stained the snowy white or dimmed the roses. Fresh black velvet "baby ribbon" had been drawn through the lace intersection trimming. Kay tied a black velvet ribbon bow in her ruddy hair. The effect was young and fresh and charming.

"Um-umph," Susie said, her mouth agape, "yo' shoo-nuff look like a angel, Miss Kay, you shoo-nuff does."

"I don't feel very angelic," Kay laughed. "Angels float through the air with the greatest of ease. My feet are squarely on the ground. Are the rolls ready to serve?"

"Yas'm. Dey shoo do look purty. Dey eat purty too. I done fried 'em jus' to se ef'n dey's lak you says dey gotta be."

Kay was not listening. The thought of Ronnie, of his unexpected, his casual proposal kept obtruding itself in her racing mind. She had tossed it off as lightly, as it seemed to have been given. Ronnie had accepted the mood, had added banter of his own in the idiom of the bright young people of the hour; Kay knew though that beneath the fluff of banter was a definite decision on Ronnie's part, a sincere want to make her his wife. He would return to his suit, this time in a more serious vein and a more opportune time, and she would have to give him an answer.

What would that answer be? She liked Ronnie; had a very deep, a very real affection for him. But love? No, it was not love she had for Ronnie, not the aching, headlong need of a woman for the man she knows can fill her life, make it rich and warm and glorious. Could Ronnie's proposal have been actuated by chivalry, by a friendly and natural masculine desire to come to her rescue, to protect? He had heard Aunt Cora wrangling with the grocer. He must know the Kenyons were in pretty desperate straights.

"No, Ronnie's brave offer was not a mere gesture of gallantry. He cared for her, genuinely, and with a minimum of selfishness for one who had been indulged all his life. Ronnie's wife? There would be an end to all these problems that were hammering at her mind, hammering and clawing . . . all except the one problem which unaccountably was knocking at the door of her heart—love. Could she compromise and accept affection where love might have been?

Bessie Munsee's involuntary "Gee! Scarlett O'Hara!" was the fore-runner of a succession of startled exclamations, some frankly admiring, others grudgingly suppressed, that ran through the luncheon. Nothing like this had happened in Somerset in moons on end. A Kenyon, in costume, hostessing in a candy shop. As cool as you please, moving in and out among the tables, making sure that everything was in order, everyone well pleased. This really was something!

At 1:30 Bessie whispered, "No more chicken rolls. Susie scraped up the last one. There's more rolls, but not a sliver of chicken."

Kay hurried to the pantry.

"We've got to do something, Susie," she said, raiding the ice box. "Let me see—cream cheese . . . current jelly . . . stuff the rolls with cream cheese, whip it up with sweet cream. Top it with the current jelly . . . here, like this. Now a few salted almonds instead of the olives . . . I'll have Bessie bring them from the tray in the shop. Hurry Susie . . . hurry."

It was after 2 when Bessie sank into a chair at a rear table.

"Whew!" she breathed. "What a day. They lapped up the cheese dabs as fast as they put away the chicken. I'm out on my feet. Darn that 'phone. No, I'll answer it. Still got a spark of strength left in the old torso." A minute later, from the phone, Bessie called to Kay:

"It's Miss Holmes. She wants to know can she reserve a special table for tea this afternoon. Five o'clock. Six people."

"Tell her the Sweet Shop will be delighted to arrange a table for six at 5 o'clock." Kay pushed the damp hair from her brow. The afternoon had grown insufferably hot and she was unutterably weary.

Shipyard Worker Was Once Famed As Ballet Master

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—From ballet master to pipe-fitter's helper at the Oregon Shipbuilding corporation yard—that's the story of Alexander Oumansky, who traveled the world over for 30 years displaying his art.

Oumansky came to the United States for the first time in 1912 as a dancer in the Diaghileff Russian ballet. For years he rub-nobbed with celebrities of the stage and screen and in 1940 opened a studio in Portland.

When shipyards opened, Oumansky says, he saw "an opportunity for me to do my part." He began as a pipe-fitter's helper, was soon promoted to pipe-fitter and recently was assigned to stacking metal hangers in the basement of the general stores building, a task which he considers another promotion.

LIBYAN ARMY SPLIT IN TWO, NAZIS BOAST

Declare Axis Tanks Pursue One British Column Toward Bardia.

ert fighting, the British evidently elected to retire behind Tobruk's perimeter of solid fortifications.

An Italian communique said Axis armored columns had captured strong British positions in the El Adem sector and were mopping up British troops pocketed farther west in the vicinity of Ain El Gazala.

The Fascist command said Axis warplanes were blasting at British troops and lines of communications between El Adem and the Egyptian border, apparently seeking to prevent the arrival of reinforcements from the east or a retreat from the Tobruk area toward Egypt.

Report Wounded Brought To Gibraltar

BERLIN —(By Official German Wireless)—(INS)— According to reports today by the German News Agency DNB, 19 British warships, some of them crippled and others carrying dead and wounded sailors, have returned to Gibraltar following the week-end battles with Axis planes which attacked a Mediterranean convoy.

The 31,000-ton battleship Malaya, accompanied by the 22,600-ton aricraft carrier Eagle and the 14,500-ton carrier Argus, returned to Gibraltar with the destroyers and five escort vessels, it was reported. Wounded men and bodies of those killed were said to have been taken ashore.

Score Against Japs In Nanchang Area

CHUNGKING, China — (U.P.) — Chinese troops reported successful attacks on the defenses of the key city of Nanchang in Kiangsi province today, but a communique acknowledged that Japanese forces were storming many points on the still unoccupied 60-mile stretch of the Nanchang-Hanchow railroad, including the city of Kweiki.

The situation at Yingtan, at the western end of the Chinese-held section of the railroad, is obscure, the communique said, while the Japanese at the eastern end are advancing from Shangjao, which they captured.

In addition, Japanese units have reached Kweiki, which is in the middle of the 60-mile stretch, and heavy fighting is in progress there, the communique said.

Axis Planes Use New Rocket Bomb

LONDON — (AP) — Axis planes participating in the great air-sea battle in the Mediterranean this week were reported today to have employed a new type rocket bomb characterized by technical authorities as the most important innovation since the introduction of the magnetic mine.

Some experts went so far as to say that because of its terrific penetrating power and high potential accuracy the new weapon might result in development of a technique that would superdsede dive-bombing.

French Say War Guilt Trials To Be Started Again.

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts) —(AP)—France's Roim war guilt trials are expected to be resumed in about two months according to dispatches from Vichy today which said Pierre Caous, president of the French supreme court, had conferred with Chief of State Petain.

The Vichy report said Paul Reynaud, former French premier, and Georges Mandel, former minister of police and colonies, would be brought before the court when the sessions were resumed.

The five original defendants in the trials are Edouard Daladier, premier when France went to war in 1939; Leon Blum, premier of France's only popular front government; Maurice Gamelin, Allied generalissimo at the outset of the war; Gay Lachambre, former air minister, and Pierre Jacomet, former administrator of defense industries.

VICTORIA, B. C. —(U.P.)— Lieut. Gen. Kenneth Stuart, commander of the Canadian armed forces on the Pacific coast, announced today that Royal Canadian Air force planes and anti-aircraft units had been aiding U. S. squadrons in the defense of Alaska.

Stuart said that RCAF squadrons and anti-aircraft units of the Canadian army had been cooperating with American forces in Alaska "for several days."

TRAIN WRECKED

23 Ore Cars Pile Up On Tracks At Youngstown.

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)—Twenty-three cars of a 75-car ore train piled up on the New York Central tracks at the northern city limits early this morning, blocking three N. Y. C. tracks and an Erie track nearby. It was reported that a journal burned out on one car, causing the wreck.

A Buffalo-Pittsburgh train had to be re-routed this morning and other traffic was blocked.

War Life Preserver Donated

The scrap rubber drive is assembling not only old tires, worn out stair treads, and other items that folks are glad to dispose of, but a lot of things that have considerable sentiment attached to them. In the upper picture is shown another item which had great sentimental significance for Mrs. John B. Conard, 508 Woodward, who turned it in. The rubber life preserver suit was given to her by her brother, the late Dr. Edward Remy, Mansfield physician who served as a captain in the Army Medical Corps in the first World war. The suit, costing more than $100, was one of many purchased by officers when they left for overseas service at the time submarines were menacing transports. Mrs. Conard gave it to McVey Post American Legion, of which her brother was the second commander. Sam Fox, present commander, turned it over to Walter L. Beckley, division manager of Cities Service Oil company, who is shown at right above helping T. M. Harper, manager of the company's station at Park avenue east and Hedges, try the suit on. In the lower photograph Zeke Schubert tosses another old tire on the two-ton heap at the Pure Oil station at 375 North Main street.

WEEKLEY GETS HEARING JULY 7

Butler School Board Hires Counsel; Superintendent Wants Public Airing.

president; Walter E. Wareham, Rupert Roberts, Wade Forbes and K. R. Morgan.

Date for the hearing was fixed after the board heard a letter from Weekley, asking that the hearing be public. Weekley has denied the charges.

By a vote of three to two, the board appropriated $100 for employing counsel and named Atty. L. H. Beam to represent it at the hearing.

Wareham, Roberts and Morgan sponsored the measure. Gower and Forbes, who previously voted against Weekley's suspension, opposed it.

The action climaxed a short debate during which Gower questioned action taken during an executive session of the board two weeks ago.

Gower reminded board members that they had agreed to withhold preferring the charges against Weekley until last night's meeting. He and Forbes cast a negative vote approving minutes of the previous session. Other members approved them.

He reminded Roberts that he (Roberts) had been opposed to the board conducting the hearing.

"Do you remember," he addressed Roberts, "that you opposed the board reviewing the case because you said you believed there would be too much prejudice and that it would not be a fair trial?"

Roberts ignored the question and called for a reading of the letter filed by Weekley.

The hearing will climax nearly six months controversy in ouster proceedings against the superintendent. Charges were originally filed with the board early in February.

The board, by a vote of three to two suspended Weekley Feb. 5, but several days later re-instated him following a stormy three-day session during which 250 pupils held a strike protesting the board's action.

Recently County Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz, whom the board had asked for an opinion, ruled that only school board members could legally bring charges against the superintendent, and that the charges filed by the citizens could not be accepted as basis for legal action.

Charges which the board will hear next month, are identical to the charges originally filed, supported by supplemental petitions, according to the attorneys James Will and A. S. Beach, who are representing the signers.

BARS HIMSELF

Willkie Says He Doubts If He'll Seek Office Again.

NEW YORK —(INS)— Wendell L. Willkie today went on record with the announcement that he doubted if he would ever again seek public office.

The 1940 Republican presidential candidate, who has often been mentioned as a candidate for governor of New York and for president again in 1944, said that to seek public office might attach a "taint of self-interest" to the cause he advocates for the nation.

This cause, he told prominent Jewish leaders assembled to dedicate the establishment of a memorial colony in Palestine in honor of the late Louis D. Brandies, was the preservation of democracy in this nation with particular reference to rights of minorities.

MAKES REPORT

LONDON — (AP) — David Gray, United States minister to Eire, has arrived in London for consultations with Ambassador John G. Winant.

It was understood in informed quarters that he is making an important report on the Dublin government's reaction to the presence of United States troops in Northern Ireland.

he was informed, "and in reality the material used in them is not of an essential nature for war materials."

Wyllie and Bowman both were told that President Roosevelt and Director R. R. Sayres, United States Bureau of Mines and Explosives, recently gave their approval to the use of fireworks for patriotic and similar events.

Both park officials said that the Fourth of July celebration will in reality save war materials. They pointed out that the celebration would start in the afternoon and would continue through the evening, keeping in the city hundreds of Mansfielders who might otherwise be burning up gasoline and using their rubber tires to celebrate the holiday in other ways.

NAZIS REPORT FALL OF FORT AT SEVASTOPOL

Communique Says Attackers Break Ring of Defenses Around Soviet Port.

dispatches said new attacks in Field Marshal Fedor von Bock's week-old offensive were bloodily repulsed.

"The enemy left 600 men killed on the battlefield, nine damaged tanks and a large quantity of arms," a Soviet communique reported. An earlier communique listed 1,500 German casualties and 15 tanks destroyed.

On the air war front, RAF bombers pounded the German U-boat nest at St. Nazaire, on the Nazi-occupied French coast, and attacked airfields and railways in northern France and Belgium.

No German night raiders appeared over Britain.

St. Nazaire is one of the main bases for far-roving German submarines preying on American coastal shipping.

Report U. S. Planes Aid At Sevastopol

LONDON — (U.P.) — A Daily Express Stockholm dispatch, unconfirmed by any source, reported today that four-motored United States planes had arrived at Sevastopol to reinforce the Russian air force and had already gone into action.

The Daily Express dispatch said the American planes had flown there from Middle Eastern bases.

Their first job, it was added, was to attack German troop concentrations north and northeast of Sevastopol, the Russian naval base fortress at the southwest side of the Crimea against which Axis troops led by German are making one of the most ferocious attacks of the entire war.

It was specified that the American planes were "Liberators," the British name for Consolidated B-24 bombers such as made a shattering attack on the Rumanian oil fields last week and hit two Italian battleships in the big Mediterranean air-naval battle just ended.

Declare Axis Loss 50,000 At Sevastopol

LONDON —(INS)— German and Rumanian forces besieging Sevastopol have suffered more than 50,000 casualties, according to reports today from Ankara.

CHANCES SLIM

Advocates Concede Federal Sales Tax Unlikely.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A sales tax was conceded by its advocates today to have only an outside chance of approval as the house ways and means committee began putting the finishing touches on a tax bill which probably will produce about $6,550,000,000 in new revenue.

Hoping to end its work in a week, the committee still has to vote formally on a sales tax and two other subjects—a postwar credit for corporations which pay high excess profits taxes, and withholding of individual income taxes at the source.

The administration was reported to be exerting terrific pressure against what sales tax sentiment remained in the committee, and one of those who has been advocating it to make up the difference between the present bill and the treasury's revised $8,700,000,000 tax goal observed "it looks like we're licked."

BACK ON JOBS

Employes of Two Cleveland Firms Return to Work.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Osborn Manufacturing company employes were back at work today following a wildcat strike of 325 workers, and full production of brushes used in war industries was resumed, company officials said.

At the Lamson and Sessions company, the 600 employes who failed to report for work yesterday because of a wage dispute, also returned to their jobs today.

YOUNGSTOWN—(U.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. James S. Taylor of Youngstown learned today that their son, Lt. John Taylor, took part in the bombing of the Italian navy in the Mediterranean.

Do This Every Morning For 30 Days

Get a bottle of Kruschen Salts tonight. Start right in tomorrow morning and take as much as will lie on a dime in a glass of water (hot or cold) half an hour before breakfast or in your morning cup of tea or coffee and keep this up for 30 days. Kruschen taken this way helps relieve such symptoms as sick headaches, bowel sluggishness and so-called bilious indigestion when due to insufficient flow of bile from the gall-bladder. You can get Kruschen, a famous English formula made in the U. S. A., at Muir's Cut Rate Drug Stores, Wm. T. Hursh or any drug store. You must be satisfied or money back.

CONSTIPATION SUFFERERS Note: For an occasional cathartic or purgative, to relieve common constipation, we believe there is nothing better than quick-acting Kruschen in larger doses—try it according to directions on the bottle.

Army Bans Joe Louis From Public Appearance For Present.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — The war department has ruled that heavyweight champion Joe Louis must complete his basic army training before it will consider allowing him to participate in any further public appearances, Secretary of War Henry L. Stinson said today.

"Louis' public appearances have made it impossible for him to complete his army training and this is unfair to both Louis and the army," the secretary said. "This is the reason why we have made this ruling."

Signs proclaiming the city as King's birthplace may be placed at the city limits. The plans also call for marking the Hamilton avenue home where he was born.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JUNE 18, 1942.

Now there's likely to be a shortage of horseshoes for pitching—due to restoration to their original purpose.

That mythical pot of gold at the end of the rainbow has become outmoded—a sack of sugar or a few new tires would possess greater allure.

Senator Predicts Second Front

WHEN Senator H. Styles Bridges, of New Hampshire, makes public announcement of belief that a second front will be opened up in Europe "sometime in the not far distant future" does he speak with the authority of a member of the senate military affairs committee, presumed to be informed on the subject, or merely as a rumor spreader?

Whichever it may be there seems to be no justification for a statement on this subject by ANY senator or congressman, or by any other minor government official, for that matter.

Civilian activities associated with the war program have been so badly messed up as a result of loose talking in Washington that it may at least be hoped that intended future military movements will not be retarded in the same way.

If there is to be a second front in Europe, as now seems probable, it is quite definitely one of the things about which unauthorized spokesmen should keep their mouths shut.

It was stated in yesterday's mention of the Bridges declaration that "he declined to reveal the basis of his prediction, but he frequently consults high military authorities . . ."

Then let those "high military authorities," or the authorized government department of public information make the statements in regard to future military intentions—if deemed advisable.

Where Silence May Save Lives

FROM the historic Cliff House, looking out on the Pacific ocean in San Francisco, Dr. J. S. Hattery, Mansfield physician, sends a copy of a card which sounds a warning against telling about seeing the departure of ships from that port.

Paying tribute to "the courageous men who take tankers, freighters, transports and fighting ships bravely over the horizon," the card suggests that a few words, thoughtlessly spoken, might result in a message, "Convoy sailed today," being shortwaved to the enemy.

"Silence is a small price to pay for victory," the message concludes. "When we leave here let us seal our lips that no untimely words of ours may lead to their destruction, to mass murder of our troops, our sons, bound overseas; to the sinking of precious ships and priceless cargoes; to the undoing of well laid plans, and in the end, perhaps, contribute to the loss of this war."

While particularly applicable to coastal sections such a warning against loose talk may well be heeded all over the country.

Serious Aspect To Father's Day

THIS YEAR, possibly more than ordinarily, there seems to be an element of seriousness in the observance of Father's day.

It hasn't been difficult, from the start, to associate sentiment with observance of Mother's day, but it was probably Father himself who was responsible for seeing a touch of humor in the idea of setting aside one of June's Sundays in his honor.

Right now, however, it is different and many sons and daughters are realizing that Dad is entitled to an expression of appreciation for what he is doing, not only for them but also in bearing a share of the war burden.

And if Dad's nerves are a little more jumpy than usual nowadays it will be well to keep in mind that there's a reason for it, with worries in the background that may not always be revealed even to members of the family.

Then there are the fathers who have seen one or more sons leave home to go into military service. However willing they may have been to have the boy go, they fully understand the dangers involved and already some of these fathers have learned that their son will never return while others are torn by anxiety as to the fate of sons in distant war areas.

And the fathers of those 18- and 19-year-old boys who are soon to be registered under selective service—their thoughts on this year's Father's day must also be directed seriously to the future and to what changes that future may bring to their homes and families.

This Father's day will not be one to be treated lightly—even by children who are sometimes inclined to take Dad very much for granted, or to wonder how he ever "got that way."

New Job for Elmer Davis

SELDOM has there been such universal approval of an appointment as in the case of Elmer Davis to handle the office of war information.

Mr. Davis is experienced and competent in the work he is to do and his record has been such as to inspire confidence in his honesty and frankness. Duplication of agencies responsible for conflicting and confusing reports and "information" from Washington has caused frightful bungling of this important wartime function.

With Elmer Davis in charge of this department it seems quite likely that there will not only be more news out of Washington but that, bearing the Davis stamp of approval, it will be much more dependably accurate.

Pact Sounds Ominous Warning

SIGNING of a 20-year mutual assistance agreement between England and Russia is an ominous warning to the Nazis. It shows that these two great powers are willing to fight that long if need be, and that they will stand together in peace as well as in war.

Part of the Nazi strategy has been to assure their people that the great efforts demanded of them would not be required for long—that victory, in fact, was in sight. The prospect of a 20-year war on top of what they have already gone through must be to most Germans an appalling thought. That is, not the least effective feature of the Russo-British agreement. Planes and tanks are not the only ways of waging war.

NEW CHAIRMAN OF THE HOUSE COMMITTEE

Elmer Davis Experienced Publicist

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

TO ELMER DAVIS, as a newspaper reporter in those days, Louis P. Lochner was a source of information during quite an exciting period in the course of World War No. 1. Now it's Louis' turn as a chronicler of World War No. 2's development, to direct queries to Elmer, in the latter's new role as chief disseminator of press, radio, film and all other sorts of vocal and pictorial tidings relative to the conflict of today.

Elmer Davis

Louis, an American correspondent in Berlin at the time Uncle Sam went to the mat with Hitler, reported voluminously to this country concerning the progress of events in the Nazi capital up to the very moment when hostile declarations were exchanged. Then he was interned for awhile, but recently was included in the party of Yankee diplomats and others exchanged by the Reich for a group of its own nationals, previously interned here.

Consequently he's back, telling very ably of his experiences abroad and just starting to deal with the all-around situation from our own standpoint, which he's admirably equipped to do in the light of his thorough acquaintance with conditions overseas.

Doubtless, however, he'll need to do a good bit of quizzing to put him in touch with what, strictly up to date and in his absence, has been doing here.

Davis Top Publicist.

And it's Elmer Davis that he'll have to quiz, Elmer having been put at the head of our streamlined publicity agency, supplanting or absorbing those of Lowell Mellett, Archibald MacLeish and all but a few others, like that of Byron Price, who isn't a publicity man, but a censor, and Nelson Rockefeller, who specializes on Pan American publicity.

Well, it's to be hoped that, this time, when Louis and Elmer get together, their relations will be a lot pleasanter than they were before.

It was on the Ford peace trip that they had their initial contact.

Louis was Henry Ford's peace publicity man. Naturally he wanted dandy press notices. The gang of news correspondents, though, quickly reached the conclusion that the whole thing was a monumental joke and played it accordingly. Elmer was about the most pungent of all of 'em. The "peacers," as they were called, resented this fearfully, and Louis, on account of his publicity responsibilities, particularly so.

There was a peace faction and a josh faction on that boat, and some of the language that was exchanged between 'em wouldn't look well in print.

TODAY IN HISTORY

June 18, 1815 marked the Battle of Waterloo, the loss of which forced Napoleon to abdicate and, finding escape impossible, to surrender to the British Napoleon's chance of success in the campaign was dangerously diminished if not destroyed by the incompetence of his two marshals, Ney and Grouchy, whom in an evil hour he had selected for high commands.

Old Coffee Cups

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I TOOK them down yesterday and washed them, the tiny black coffee cups that I had bought so long ago. Lovely little trifles from old England.

It seemed so remote, the life that had been filled with tiny cups and miniature spoons, with all the little delicate gadgets which once filled our home. They seemed so important then. I bought them with the first money I ever made and was so proud of them. They seemed to represent the roots of life, the symbol of all gentle, friendly culture. And now they mean nothing at all. I have not touched them in years. We drink our coffee from heavy mugs. We eat from paper plates. They are as remote from our present way of life as the relics of Pompeii.

AND I AM GLAD!

I AM GLAD THAT WE ARE GOING BACK TO THE SIMPLE ESSENTIALS AGAIN.

I AM GLAD THAT I MUST WASH MY OWN DISHES AND COOK MY OWN MEALS AND PRUNE MY OWN GARDEN.

I am glad that there is no security about my life any more. For I was stronger and all America was stronger when we had no security. I laughed then—all America laughed—when our shoes were half-soled and we had patches on our clothes and we ate corn bread and New Orleans molasses for supper.

I look with amazement at the little old coffee cups and all that went with them. I wonder why they ever seemed important. I see now that I mortgaged a little of my strength every time I leaned on them. With each comfort I accepted, with each protection which I found, I became a little weaker. And America became a little weaker.

BUT WE WILL NOT BE WEAKER WHEN THIS HELL IS OVER.

We will be rid of the non-essentials. We will have learned how to live without them, those of us who are worth our salt.

There will be a new America . . . a simpler, stranger America . . . but at least we will be standing on our own hind legs as our fathers stood before us, and nothing on earth can stop us.

As a frontier child I saw an America that had no little coffee cups, no chromium gadgets, and then for a long while that America disappeared. But now out of the clouds of fear and shock and anger and loss that America is reappearing. Through the murk I see its face again—strong, stern and proud and self-sufficient.

Dimly I see the dream emerge that made America, like a giant shedding its fripperies—

Dimly I see Democracy emerging—

Dimly I see America finding itself again. It is a good thing, this war

IT WILL GET RID OF A LOT OF DANDRUFF.

Pay Off the Mortgage.

President Roosevelt has given some sound advice to those who are buying homes under the FHA mortgage plan in urging them to use increased earnings to reduce their debts.

The wage and salary earner who is getting a larger income as a result of higher pay and longer hours can find no better way of adding to his own future security and, at the same time, helping to protect the national economy than to use this extra money in paying off the mortgage.

From the standpoint of the individual it is always good sense to get out of debt in good times. . . .

The man who uses his extra earnings to reduce his debts, instead of increasing his current consumption, is doing himself a good turn in two ways. He is helping to keep down the cost of living by avoiding unnecessary buying and he is placing himself in a better position to meet what rise in living costs may come by reducing his fixed expenses for interest.—New York Times.

Congress Firmly Resists Efforts To Lower Age of Draftees to 18

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Only one thing is standing in the way of lowering the draft age to 18 years—congress.

The army, navy, selective service and the war man power board all favor taking the step. But congress, already jittery over the coming elections, stalls. In private conferences, floor leaders have vigorously warned against doing anything; even have told the president and the war chiefs that if an age-lowering bill is introduced it is sure to be killed.

That is the inside reason why the president has held off, despite strong pressure from his military advisers.

They have presented two principal arguments: (1) that youths between the ages of 18 and 21 make the best fighters, particularly in the air; (2) that lowering the draft age to 18 will eliminate a lot of headaches resulting from the induction of large numbers of married men.

With its air corps headed for million-man strength, the army is anxious to get as many 18-to-21-year-olds as possible. War experience has proven that youths in these age groups make the best fighter pilots, gunners and bombardiers.

Most of Britain's ablest squadron leaders now are men between the ages of 21 and 23, who began air fighting before they were 20.

But with the scared congressional eye fixed on the ballot boxes, the military leaders have made absolutely no headway. And if the floor bosses can help it, they won't until after November.

That is the inside situation on the issue today, which under cover is one of the hottest in the capital. Congress wants no more headaches, and the draft law can't be changed without congress.

Note—Meanwhile the military pay increase to $50 a month is attracting thousands of under-draft age youngsters to the colors.

Nuts to You, Officer.

A POLICEMAN guarding the house entrance to the Capitol fixed a suspicious eye on a neatly-dressed man who said he had an appointment with Representative Sol Bloom of New York.

"Just a minute," said the cop. "What have you got in that bag?"

"Nuts," replied the stranger.

"Don't give me that stuff," retorted the bluecoat. "What have you got in that bag?"

"Nuts," repeated the visitor.

"For the last time," insisted the policeman, "what have you got in that bag?"

The stranger opened the bag, revealing a quantity of Mexican cohune nuts. He said he was trying to interest the government in importing the nuts, for their rich oil, and thought Bloom might help him.

Do-As-Done-By Dept.

PHILADELPHIA has set a goal for other large cities to shoot at in the sale of war bonds.

It is the only big city where all the large department stores have turned over their entire sales force to pushing the sales of war stamps and bonds. Under this patriotic program over 6,000 trained sales people are selling war securities, so the boys at the front can keep 'em flying and rolling.

The stores participating in this unique drive are John Wanamaker; Strawbridge & Clothier; N. Snellenburg; Lit Brothers; Gimbels; and Blauner's.

No Nickel for 5c Piece.

SOME people have the idea that congressmen do nothing but draw gasoline X-cards and make speeches. Actually, however, a lot of things would slip by the executive branch of the government if it were not for watchful congressmen.

For instance, the treasury recently was on the verge of coining a new nickel without any nickel in it when Congressman Charles Dewey of Chicago stepped in and pointed out that the new nickel could not be used in the New York subway turnstiles, nor in thousands of slot machines which sell refreshments in factories and elsewhere.

Behind all this is the fact that nickel is one of the scarcest of defense metals; so the government had decided the new 5-cent piece should not be made of nickel at all, but of 50 per cent copper and 50 per cent silver.

But suddenly Congressman Dewey discovered that it is not entirely the weight or size of the 5-cent piece which moves turnstiles or slot machines, but a magnetism coming from the quantity of nickel in the coin. Copper and silver, it was also found, would not set off the mechanism. So the mint suddenly held up making the new coins.

Since then it has been discovered that electrolic manganese, not a critical war material, can be used to supply the magnetism, and it will be used instead of nickel. So the new 5-cent piece will function in slot machines and subway turnstiles after all.

Painful Words.

ONE FACTOR which contributed heavily to Representative Luther Patrick's defeat in the Alabama primary was the recording of a broadcast he made several months ago.

"The opposition played that record all over the district," says Patrick, "until I had nightmares. I had said over the radio—

" 'Ladies and gentlemen, we passed some kind of an appropriation bill up there a while ago. I voted for it. You know how it is with congressmen. We vote a bill out today, and then buy a paper tomorrow to see what it was.'

"I thought it was a pretty clever joke then, but when I heard that record played back to me a dozen times down in my district over the radio, it did not sound so funny. No sir, I did not think it was a bit clever."

And, judging by the votes—neither did the people in Patrick's district.

War Notes.

SUGGESTION to the army and navy air branches: How about giving the navigators and radio operators of plane crews a favorable mention in announcements of successful attacks. Pilots and gunners, who of course richly deserve credit, are always cited, but it's rare that the navigator and radio operator get any mention, although vital to execution of a mission. . . . Here is more good news for U. S. cotton growers: Camouflage requirements in the far-flung war areas are making heavy inroads in the huge cotton surplus. Vast quantities of cotton cloth are being bought by the army for camouflage purposes.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—The subject of today's essay, friends, concerns a Moroccan named Ahmed Mohamed Riffi. He is a 45-year-old cold meat cook at a Manhattan hotel. Citizen Riffi is a colorful character, for he is a relative of the late Abdul Krim, the Riff war chieftain who retired to the Riffian hills some years ago and defied the whole might of Catholic Spain. For his pains Friend Riffi was shot twice, but managed to emerge from his experiences with a few scars and an excruciating longing for the peace and tranquility of the United States.

SO TODAY he is a cold meat man in a Manhattan hotel. He makes $25 a week. So appreciative is Riffi of his newly found security that he has worked out a private little War Bond arrangement with his employer's bookkeeper that goes like this: Every week for four weeks he has $18.75 held out of his $25 a week salary. On the fifth week he receives the whole $25. Then he starts all over again, buying $18.75 worth of stamps out of his $25 a week salary.

How does he manage? Riffi explains it this way: "Well, I'm a bachelor, so I haven't got a wife and kids to worry about. Then I have a room in 9th avenue. I share this room with a friend of mine, and in this way it costs us only a couple of bucks a piece. Outside of that, I don't have anything to spend money for. I don't have time to go to the movies. I get my meals at the hotel. So I got plenty reason to buy a few stamps. I've already had one country shot out from under me. Now I got a new country. I dont want that to happen to this country too."

THIS is New York: Jose Iturbi telling friends he has passed up his South American tour in order to enter the Civilian Air Patrol, thus putting his 800 hours experience in the air to practical use . . . A Farmer's Diary

Little Fox

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WALKED down the hill from the north of an abandoned farm which borders ours, stepping cautiously and with little noise, because the thick bunches of poverty grass upon this slope were like cushions. Near the northern border of this land the dilapidated house and barn stand at the very edge of a deeper slope. The west side of the barn has already fallen and a heap of rubble lays deep upon the surface.

Here, from earlier observations, I knew a family of foxes lived. A hollow is in the wall and fresh tracks tell the story in the sticky clay when it is wet. Often I watched for half an hour from the open windows of the house, but saw no evidence of life.

This time the wind was blowing toward me from the southeast. The afternoon sun shone warm through open places in the tall overhanging cherry trees along the lane. I saw something—a dark, reddish ball—on a broad pine board perhaps ten inches in diameter. The little fluffy something did not move, but as I came closer and concealed myself behind the thrifty sweet apple tree no more than 30 feet off, I saw the wind move tiny waves of fur and then the little furry face and ears came into view.

A little fox was sleeping in the sunshine. Would I wake him? No, not I. He was entirely alone and unmindful of any danger. I watched his soft flank move up and down in rhythmic, carefree breathing. At times his moist dark muzzle wrinkled and jerked as though he might be having a foxy dream. His soft forepaws were outstretched, at rest, while his pretty baby face lay leisurely upon them.

I could hardly believe this little pup was wild. My instinct was to go forth from my hiding place and stroke this infant of the woods.

Then he awoke, pushed his paws farther front, yawned with wide open mouth and slender, supple, rolled pink tongue . . . stretched, yawning, three different times, emphasizing the last with a tiny yelp of utter satisfaction. Then he sat up, limberly, and seemed to feel the urge of hunger.

No wonder, when his little alimentary canal is less than eight feet long . . . much less in length than that of many smaller animals. (Carnivorous beasts have shorter digestive canals than herbaceous creatures.)

Lazily he stepped from his warm spot on the sunny board, and sniffed about a clump of grass, suddenly became alert and animated, then dashed his pointed nose against the turf and brought out a squeaking wriggling mouse, with three young ones attached to her, below.

His youthful, bushy tail almost swept the grass. He was sinewy, graceful, lithe and beautifully clothed. His food was just beside him and the rodents that he kills are incipient pests. Our chicken yard is not far distant, but I knew that only when his supply of wild food is gone will he invade a barnyard.

STRIKE SNAGS PRODUCTION AT GALION PLANT

200 Workers Idle at Central Ohio Steel Products Company.

GALION — Two hundred employes of the Central Ohio Steel Products company here are idle today as a result of Galion's first shutdown since the start of the war. The shutdown is the result of a dispute as to the method of determining a collective bargaining agent at the plant.

Picketing is being conducted by members of local Lodge 1151, International Association of Machinists, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

The union claims 80 per cent of the employes are members of the organization. It has been seeking company recognition.

Several meetings have been held between representatives of the company and union during the past two days but no agreement has been reached. Company spokesmen had no comment to make.

Chairman of the negotiating committee, Hal Cross, said that a committee met recently with G. L. Steifel, president of the company, Norman J. Schnelker, superintendent, and Attorney Carl H. Henkel, Mansfield.

Cross said they discussed whether a National Labor Relations Board election should be held or a labor board conciliator be called into count paid-up union memberships as a means of decided whether the I. A. M. held a majority at the plant.

Steifel was out of the city today and officials said that on Monday, after his return, the union will meet with the management.

Cross said the conciliator method of determining the bargaining agent would take only a day or two while the NLRB election method would take not less than three weeks, depending on the availability of an NLRB representative to accept the application and later conduct the election.

The company has been engaged primarily in making steel dump bodies for the government.

TRUMAN SEEKS WPB SHAKE-UP

Issues Report Criticizing 'Damaging Delay' In War Conversion.

dence of sharp differences of opinion among war production officials.

Philip D. Reed, chief of the WPB bureau of industry branches, was cited by the senate committee as not having taken "the necessary action to obtain the maximum conversion of private industry to war production in the shortest possible time."

Reed was Guthrie's immediate superior when Guthrie and his friends quit WPB, and the report said Reed was serving WPB "on a dollar-a-year basis, on leave from his position as chairman of the board of the General Electric company from which company he is presently receiving a salary and bonus totaling $120,000 per year."

"The committee has not been impressed with Mr. Reed's ability or accomplishments," the report said.

Chairman Truman in his statement said: "This committee has repeatedly concluded that the work of the OPM and WPB has been hampered by the extent to which their personnel was predominantly drawn from the big business group."

He added that while there was no question as to patriotism, integrity, or ability, the "attitudes and associations which these men have acquired through the years makes it undesirable to rely upon them exclusively for direction of the war production programs."

He said "labor has demonstrated its right to a greater degree of participation in the operating work of the War Production Board," and recommended a "wider opportunity" for small businessmen to participate in WPB administration and a place in the setup for "many of the country's outstanding independent-minded production engineers."

miles, to make the first-revealed United States raid on the European continent.

Most of the crews of the planes which landed in Turkey are from New York, Kentucky and Texas.

Their story was told by sources other than themselves or the United States embassy, which still declines to comment.

The men themselves are not permitted to give details.

Lieut. Charles Davis, navigator of one plane and informal press relations officer of the interned crews, selected because he was formerly war editor of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, would not even admit he knew why the planes had landed.

"If we knew we wouldn't be here," he said. "I really don't know what went wrong."

He emphasized that he could say nothing about where the planes came from, where they had been or what they had done, even if it were already widely known.

Lieut. Walker, acting commander of the internes, concurred.

Both praised the "swell treatment" they have received from Turkish officials and the attention given them by the embassy.

Something New--Sun Sculpture

They say there is nothing new under the sun—but how about sun sculpture? This hobby of Morris Simon, 59, of New York, is a new wrinkle to us. With the aid of a magnifying or "burning" glass, Simon is shown using the sun's rays to etch an historic panel which he plans to present to President Roosevelt.

ISSUES REPORT

Insurance Publication Says $755,000 Paid Here.

Life insurance payments amounting to $755,000 were made to Mansfield policy-holders and their beneficiaries in 1941, according to a report compiled by the National Underwriter, an insurance newspaper.

The city ranked among the first 25 in the state in the amount of payments and was well ahead of other cities of similar population. Warren, for instance, had payments of $620,000 while Newark beneficiaries and policy-holders received $550,000.

Total payments on policies in Ohio were $180,300,000, ranking the state fourth in the nation. That figure represented $26.10 for every person in the state.

Lowe Brothers
HIGH STANDARD HOUSE PAINT

"LOTS OF PEOPLE make a big mistake in figuring the cost of house paint. They look at its price per gallon. But that's all wrong. What they really pay for is coverage per gallon. That's why I figure it's just common sense to use Lowe Brothers High Standard House Paint. It's definitely a quality paint and it covers solidly more square feet of surface, so it spreads evenly and easily, cuts down the labor and cost, lengthens the time between repainting. It just naturally goes farther and lasts longer to save money all the way."

Get your free copy of "Color Keys to Sunlit Homes," Lowe Brothers big illustrated book, containing over 100 full-color recommendations for paint-styling your home, both inside and out.

TIGHTEN UP ON VIOLATORS OF TRAFFIC CODE

Police Begin to File Unsafe Operation Charges Instead of Speeding Counts.

Mansfield traffic patrolmen are tightening up on speeders and other traffic violators in an effort to discourage reckless driving and to decrease the number of accidents in the city.

Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals said today that patrolmen were filing charges of unsafe operation against most motorists arrested rather than lighter charges such as a straight speeding charge.

Six persons were arraigned in municipal court yesterday afternoon on unsafe operation charges in line with the traffic squad's new policy. All of them pleaded guilty and received fines.

Boals said that the system has been effective so far this month with only 34 accidents being reported since June 1 as compared to the 48 reported in May by May 18.

Commissioner Boals said that accidents reached their high in January when 75 were reported in the first 18 days but that the accidents have decreased each month.

Among those fined yesterday were: James Posey, 75 Penn avenue, $10 and costs; Richard Salyer, 14 Harmon avenue, $10 and costs; Wade Poole, 23 Dewey avenue, $20 and costs and operator's license revoked for one year; Leonard E. Tucyrus, $10 and costs; Donald E. Peters, 65 Weldon avenue, $10 and costs, and Mrs. Helen Louise Gage, Mansfield R. D. 3, $10 and costs.

Here's A Brand New Excuse For A Jail Break

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—(INS)—There's a new reason for a jail break in the records of the Chattanooga city calaboose today.

Albert R. Scott, 35, serving a sentence for grand larceny, went A.W.O.L. while on trusty duty, and led two other trusties with him.

When Scott was picked up a short time later on a downtown street he told officers:

"I just stepped out for awhile to get married."

Police said he apparently had not fulfilled his intentions of entering the state of matrimony when rearrested. Neither could they ascertain what part the two extra trusties were supposed to play in Scott's plans.

Girl's Favorite Typing Exercise Helps Land Job

OMAHA, Neb.—(INS)—The favorite typing exercise of Miss Phyllis Peterson, 18, efficient and honest secretary in an Omaha tent and awning company runs something like this:

"Honesty is the best policy."

A few weeks ago, Miss Peterson was a student in a Omaha Secretarial school. One day, while walking along a downtown street, she saw a $20 bill lying on the sidewalk, picked it up and took it home with her.

The next morning, N. B. Lamm, a department manager for the tent and awning company, who had lost the bill, inserted an advertisement in a local newspaper, more or less as an experiment.

Miss Peterson saw the ad and called Lamm. After he had recovered from the shock, Lamm went to the secretarial school, gave Miss Peterson a $10 reward and asked her when she would complete her course. She said she was just finishing.

That's how she got the job.

Says Moros Will Aid In Recapture Of Philippines

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah—(INS)—When United States return to the Philippines in sufficient strength to dispatch the invading Japanese, the deadly savage Moro natives will lead a "fifth-column" attack that will turn the trick, declared Sergeant Glenn Baker of Fort Douglas, Utah.

Sergeant Baker, formerly a member of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces in the Philippines, said the Japanese will have the trouble with the Moros that has faced every other foe—they are unusually difficult to dispatch.

"A Moro is noted for the fact he can't be killed with less than a .45-caliber automatic," he said. "The Japanese light guns aren't going to be very effective in stamping out a revolt and trying to turn back an American invasion at the same time."

"They are ready," he concluded. "They were getting ready for just such an eventuality last August when I left the Philippines."

Indiana was discovered by La Salle in 1671 and constituted part of New France.

MISSIONARY FROM EGYPT GIVES TALK

Miss Minniehaha Finney Is Speaker at the United Presbyterian Church; Mrs. J. C. White Tells of Work In India.

MISS MINNIEHAHA FINNEY, who has retired from missionary work in Egypt, gave an interesting talk Wednesday afternoon at the United Presbyterian church. She was introduced by the president of the Women's Missionary society, Mrs. E. D. Craig. Miss Finney's subject was "Prayer." She told of the power and influence of prayer during her service in the mission field. She told many interesting stories about the conversion of natives from "darkness and unbelief" to Christianity.

An instructive as well as interesting address about missions was given by Mrs. J. Campbell White, who, with Dr. White, was a missionary in India. The Whites are now residents of Mansfield. Topic for devotions led by Mrs. Berta Newcomer was "Torches and Light." Seventy-five were present for yesterday's meeting. Groups represented were the Women's Missionary society of the Presbyterian church, the society of the East Mansfield United Presbyterian church, and the Women's Missionary society and guild of the First United Presbyterian church.

Refreshments were served buffet style from a long table decorated with roses and a variety of garden flowers with tapers.

Miss Leonard Gives Party In Bride's Honor

Honoring Mrs. Raymond Friday, the former Phyllis Underwood, Miss Marjorie Leonard, 171 South Foster street, was hostess for a miscellaneous shower last evening. The luncheon table was cleverly and attractively decorated with military appointments. American flags were inserted in the red, white and blue floral centerpiece. The patriotic color scheme was repeated in the tapers, bases of which were encircled with red roses. Miniature toy soldiers marked the individual places.

During the evening the guests made a bride's book for Mrs. Friday. The time was spent socially. The honoree was directed to her gifts by letters on discs, from which she formed words that spelled the hiding places. There were eight guests at the party. Mrs. Friday is residing with her parents on Rowland avenue while her husband is in the service. The hostess and her mother, Mrs. Don Leonard, presented the honoree with an electrical gift.

Be Happy, Have Good Posture

By MME. QUI VIVE

When a woman feels out of sorts, when the bottom has fallen out of her world for the time being, when the old head aches and the "what's the use?" dirge is ringing in her mind, it is the precise time when she should lift her chest, take the slack out of her spine and march. It is no time for her to stick her head under a pillow and bawl. An attitude of hopefulness and courage brings better spirits.

No woman should look as she feels unless she fells happy. If she feels miserable she should try not to look it, because looking it will make her more wretched. She should freshen her complexion, put on lipstick, chase out to get a new hairdo.

An observing husband says that his wife leaps out of bed in the morning, runs to the mirror, gazes at the reflection therein. If she looks all right she says she feels fine. If she doesn't, she says she's half dead and maybe she'd better go back to bed for the day. Amusing, probably untrue. But there's something to it. Appearance may not affect the physical being to any great extent, but it certainly has a lot to do with the mental and spiritual state.

We've got to stand up to our jobs these days. We might as well stand straight, in a soldierly manner.

It sometimes happens that a girl's posture is determined by the clothes she wears. She encloses herself in a swell-elegant frock, fares forth to the gay party, carries herself in the queenly manner. Tagging round the house in an old dud she slumps in her chest, lets the abdominal walls go slack, forming a neat little shelf, and hunches her shoulders. She is not on parade, so she doesn't care. A bad habit. Correct posture should be maintained at all times for many reasons. It makes the musculature strong. It keeps fat cells from accumulating in the mid-section. Breathing is deeper than it is when the chest is concaved.

When the chest is contracted, circulation is not as brisk at it might be. Breathing is shallow; shallow breathing causes pallor.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian turned a shrewd look on my father, a look that pierced the fallacy of the statement he had just made.

"And you expect me to believe, Chief," she said sardonically, "that you cannot guard me in this house in the city as well as you could in that lonely farmohuse? My senility must be most apparent."

"Of course I know what you mean," she said. "You believe that this thing has so warped my judgment that I am not capable of dealing with these fiends as I would if Marion's life and honor were not involved. You cannot trust me to do the sane thing when I receive messages purporting to be from Marion.

Her voice trailed brokenly away, then she spoke again.

Lillian Gives In.

"Well, you're right," she said. "I give in. I'll do whatever you say, if you'll tell me one thing truthfully. Is my staying in this house, or in the city, endangering Marion?"

My father gave her a steady, appraising look.

"You always could stand the surgeon's knife, Lillian," he said. "There's no reason why I should not wield it now, so here's your answer. I do not dare trust you where Marion is concerned, and your staying in the city, especially here, is a distinct menace to your child."

She flinched only for the fraction of an instant, then straightened herself and looked at him steadily.

"I will go whenever you say," she told him. "But—Harry will stay here?"

"Part of the time," my father responded.

"You mean there will be nobody here if Marion—" she began.

"I mean nothing of the kind," he said. "Margaret and Katharine will stay here, under ample guard of course. Miss Whitlock will accompany you to the farm."

News to Madge.

I almost spoke out of turn of this calm reshuffling of my household and myself, for this was the first I had heard of the plan.

"Margaret is hearing of this plan for the first time, Lillian," he said. "Indeed, I have just completed mapping it out. But Jack Bickett's arrival has made it necessary for me to have Katharine within reach, in case I need her."

Questions began to carom around my brain. Why should he think he would need Katharine at hand? Was Jack still bent on disapeparing again? Did my father count on Katharine's influence to stop him? But my father was speaking again and the questions came to rest unanswered.

"I also must have Margaret here; for one thing, to impersonate you at that rendezvous two weeks from tomorrow night, if Marion has not been rescued before then."

Lillian's gasping breath was almost a scream.

"You mean, she might be—" she stammered.

Spencer's Two Objectives.

"I'm afraid it's unlikely, but it's a possibility," he answerd. "And going on from where I was before your question—" his voice held a note of impatience — "if Katharine comes in, Margaret's children at the farm will need attention. You and Miss Whitlock can take care of them without taxing you too much, and—"

He stopped abruptly, and Lillian finished his sentence.

"And they will be healing for me," she said, with a wan smile.

"Exactly, my dear," he said. Then he walked over, lifted her hand and kissed it with stately ceremony. "You are a very good soldier," he said, "as is your husband.

"And now, Margaret and I must leave you. If Harry is well enough, I wish you to go down to the farm day after tomorrow with Miss Whitlock. You will go in the morning, and Katharine will come back in the afternoon. Then, if Harry's wounds needs further attention, she can take over.

"You see, I have two objectives; one to get you out of the city, the other to get Katharine into it."

Father, Son Are Closer By Cubbing

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

When I was a boy on the farm, from about eight to twelve, going fishing with my father in the spring was a rare event. We also went at times after the hay and grain were in the barn. I used to look forward to these events.

I don't recall our catching many fish—but our going, Dad and I together, getting the bait, rigging up the crude tackle, crossing the woods and fields, and sitting by the creek together, was lots of fun. Digging the worms together is one of my fondest memories. As Father spaded up the moist dirt, I picked out the wriggling worms.

Late in the fall, about this time, my father also used to help me make rabbit boxes (traps). I was never handy with tools, so I was very happy when Father came along to help me. He really did most of the work, being so much more skillful. But at such times I felt very close to Father, for we talked constantly then as we also did when fishing.

I wish more fathers would go fishing with their boys.

Practically all city fathers and young sons can have similar experiences to those my father and I had over making rabbit traps, and their boys can do better than I did, if they learn skills with tools early. Thanks to the good influence of the modern primary school in guiding children to do things with their hands, many children develop home workshops. What a place for fathers to join in and make things with the child.

Cubbing.

Just see what Cubbing has done to encourage the father and his 9 to 12 year son to do and make things together for fun. Some while ago, as you will recall, I devoted a column to the value of Cubbing and urged parents to get back of it heart and soul. Writing to commend me on that article, W. C. Wessel, National Director of Cubbing, of the Boy Scouts of America, added:

"Having a promotional responsibility for Cubbing, I develop most of my steam and enthusiasm for what it actually accomplishes in the home circle and the neighborhood situation where the boys spend the greater part of their lives. I have had two-fisted, broad-shouldered men come to me with tears in their eyes saying, 'I thank God for Cubbing.' It is the first time this kid of mine ever called me Pal."

The kid called him "Pal" because Cubbing made it possible for father and son to do things together. Then, too, since Cubbing helps the neighborhood pattern of behavior, we have had many fine comments from parents stating: "Cubbing has brought a spirit of cooperation in our neighborhood."

Fathers and mothers interested in Cubbing should get in touch with their local Scout Master or write W. C. Wessel, National Director of Cubbing, 2 Park Avenue, New York City.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, June 19

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

INTRIGUING AND unpredictable conditions generally are noted in this day's planetary set-up. While there is definite promise of active, expansive, productive and lucrative operations, there may be sudden, disentegrating and frustrating adventures, descending with force and futility.

Those whose birthday it is should be prepared for a year of very definite conflicts and contradictions, with much progress and expansion toward desired hopes and wishes of a material character, with increase of finances. Be wary with friendships and safeguard the health.

A child born on this day while enjoying some splendid strokes of good fortune, may also be the victim of over-confidence.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

DON'T ASK SURE THINGS

If you are unwilling to gamble on probabilities, and confine yourself to sure things, you should not play games of any kind, let alone bridge. Any game is a problem of attempting those moves which you consider most likely to succeed. If you do it soundly and skilfully, you make out all right in the long run. If you do it unsoundly—being either too timid or too venturesome — you will be doomed to ultimate failure.

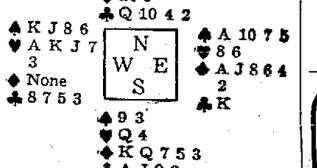
North's jump to 3-Spades was perhaps a slight overbid, but he preferred it to a weak 2-Spades, or any other call which would give the opponents any facts about his type of hand. South was ready for 7-Spades if North's response to the Blackwood convention had shown two kings, and 7-No Trumps if it had shown three of them.

Following the lead of the club J. North putting on the Q on the chance that West led from a king, the K forced the A. Develop the play any way you want, and you wil see that the contract is now impossible of fulfilment unless West has the heart K. Since he has not, the contract is bound to be beaten. As soon as that card wins, the setting club is scored.

Tomorow's Lesson.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

What principle regarding the leading of trumps applies to this deal after South opens the diamond K against East's 4-Spades?

But that does not prove the bidding too venturesome. If the East and West hands are traded, a grand slam can be made. Or if the K of either hearts or clubs happened to be held by West, the contract would be made. Would you take a chance on bidding a slam which could be made under any of all those circumstances If not, you are not a sound bidder.

New Dessert Recipes Help Save Sugar

By BETSY NEWMAN

A recent government pamphlet from the Home Economics Bureau of the Department of Agriculture gives a number of desserts which use little if any sugar. It is titled, "Recipes to Match Your Sugar Ration." I'll give you a pudding, cake and pie recipe taken from it to show you how it is done.

Today's Menu.

Liver and Bacon
Parsley New Potatoes or
Mashed Old Ones
Creamed Onions
Apple and Celery Salad
Dessert Tea or Coffee

Gingerbread.

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg
¼ cup milk
¼ cup melted fat
¾ cup sorghum, cane, corn or maple syrup
½ teaspoon ginger

Sift 5 dry ingredients together. Combine beaten egg, milk and melted fat, and add this mixture to dry ingredients, stirring in syrup last. If you use molasses, change to 2 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon soda. Bake in shallow pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for from 30 to 40 minutes, or in muffin pans in hot oven (400 degrees F.) for 15 to 20 minutes.

Cottage Pudding

3 cups sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 egg beaten
⅔ cup milk
¼ cup melted fat
1 cup sorghum, cane, corn or maple syrup
1 teaspoon flavoring

Sift dry ingredients together. Combine beaten egg, milk, melted fat and flavoring, and add to sifted dry ingredients and beat well. Add sweetening and mix thoroughly. If you use sorghum, use 2 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon baking soda. Pour into greased pan and, for thin loaf, bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 25 minutes. If you make cup cakes, baking in 375 degrees F. oven for about 20 minutes. Serve hot with fresh fruit, chocolate, maple, lemon or custard sauce.

Orange Custard Pie.

1 baked pie shell
2 large oranges
2 cups milk
4 tablespoons flour
¼ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 to 2 tablespoons grated orange rind
2 tablespoons butter

Peel oranges, pull sections apart and remove membrane, chill. Heat milk in double boiler. Mix flour, sugar and salt thoroughly. Pour some of hot liquid into this mixture, stir well and return to double boiler. Stir until thickened, cover, and cook for 15 minutes. Beat well. Pour some of mixture into beaten eggs, and add to the rest of mixture with butter and orange rind. Pour into baked pie shell, and when cool cover top with orange sections and serve at once. You can make Banana Custard Pie by this same recipe, substituting ½ teaspoon vanilla in place of the orange rind, and covering the baked pie with sliced ripe banana instead of orange sections.

Torpedo Victims Rescued by Navy Plane

A navy patrol bomber rescues seven men from a raft on which they drifted for seven days following the torpedoing of their freighter in the Caribbean.

THEATERS

Marine Picture.

Hundreds of enlisted men at the San Diego Marine base appear in the technicolor production, "To the Shores of Tripoli," showing at the Ohio. Filmed in cooperation with the U. S. government and the Marine Corps the picture presents the lively story of a leatherneck and a navy nurse. John Payne and Maureen O'Hara have the romantic roles and Randolph Scott plays the top sergeant.

Comedy Drama.

Romance enters a prize fighters' boarding house when the landlady's niece arrives from Europe in the Madison attraction, "Sunday Punch," with William Lundigan, Jean Rogers and Dan Dailey, jr. Lundigan plays the title contender while Dailey portrays Lundigan's rival in the affairs of both the ring and the heart. Jack London's "Adventures of Martin Eden," is the second attraction.

Screen Revue.

Olsen and Johnson bring their mad brand of hilarity to the Ritz screen in "Hellzapoppin'," a comedy with musicals featuring Martha Raye, Mischa Auer and Hugh Herbert. Jane Frazee and Robert Paige furnish the only sane note in the nonsensical revue that is highlighted by a water ballet. Constance Bennett and Bruce Cabot appear in "Wild Bill Hickok Rides," the second attraction.

Romantic Comedy.

"Moonlight Masquerade," the Park attraction, teams Dennis O'Keefe and Jane Frazee in the mirthful story of the heirs to an estate. The two are bound to inherit a fortune but only upon condition that they marry although they have never met. Eddie Foy, jr., and The Chocolateers, the three dancers who won fame with Cab Calloway, are in the cast. "Cyclone On Horseback," the co-feature, has Tim Holt, Marjorie Reynolds and "Lasses" White, old-time vaudevillian.

Here's a sensible way

TO GET OUT OF DEBT

You may wonder how you can get out of debt now, when you haven't been able to before. The answer lies in getting a cash loan from Personal.

With this money you'll be able to pay off your debts at once. Then you repay Personal in monthly amounts you can afford.

This doesn't put you deeper into debt. It simply adjusts to a cash basis the debts you already have.

Personal makes loans on signature, fuurniture, or auto, to men and women, single or married, employed on either a new job or an old one. Sensible monthly payments:

$10.65 a month repays a $100 loan in 12 months

We don't believe that folks should borrow unless a loan is the best solution to their problem. If it is, and you need $10 to $250 or more, come in or phone.

DESHEE CO-OP LABELED 'RED' SHOWS PROFIT

Indiana Farm Project Nets $16,500 For 38 Families During 1941.

(By United Press)

INDIANAPOLIS — The 2,771-acre Deshee farm near Vincennes, Ind., recently attacked in congress as a "Russian colony," completed its third farm year with a $16,500 net profit, according to William Lightfoot, jr., assistant regional director of the Farm Security Administration.

The project, a part of the government-owned Wabash farms which include 7,718 acres in seven southern Indiana counties, is operated on a cooperative basis by 38 families.

The $16,500 net, Lightfoot pointed out, represents the profit on the 1941 operation after annual rent of $6,600 and previous losses of $12,000 were deducted. However, the bookkeeping, he said, does not take advantage of recent price increases for farm products as a 10-year price average was used in taking inventory.

In addition to the Deshee farm, the FSA operates two similar cooperative projects, the Bois D'Arc and Hillview farms in southern Missouri.

Lightfoot explained that in setting up the Deshee farm in 1939, eight large farms supporting eight families were purchased for about $70 per acre. Forty-one houses were built and leased with the idea that if tenants were able to operate the project successfully, the government would sell the farm on a long-term mortgage.

Members of the cooperative own none of the crops or livestock individually. In return for 10 hours daily work, they get their house, a garden plot, field and dairy products and 20 cents per hour in a cash wage, which Lightfoot termed an advance on potential dividends.

At the end of the year, if a profit is made, members receive dividends after a reserve is taken out of the fund.

Members of the cooperative elect their own manager but various phases of the operation are directed by committees.

Lightfoot pointed out that this has been one cause of high membership turnover. In several cases committee chairmen become so well-trained in one branch of farming that they were offered lucrative jobs as farm managers and specialists.

At the present time, he said, three vacancies exist as a result of members taking specialists' jobs or positions in defense industry. The 41 houses all will be occupied this spring, he added.

Commenting on charges of communism in connection with Deshee farm, Lightfoot said:

"Some people who have never seen one of our projects or talked to the people on them are prone to criticize, but my observation is that local people approve the project after taking the trouble to visit the farm and see how the program works.

"But if 40 American families making their living, paying their way, and reaching their own decisions is Communistic, then Deshee is Communistic."

SAYS DOUGHBOYS DON'T CHANGE

PORTLAND, Me.—(U.P.)—Take it from the Salvation Army, America's 1942 doughboys are just like their dads back in 1917-18.

Major Alva M. Holbrook, Salvation Army, here on a visit, said he told American troops at Hawaii:

"You get just as hungry and you can stuff away just as many doughnuts as your pappies. And when you are not in training or fighting, you do the same things. Only difference is, your dads chased after the mademoiselles and you chase after the wahines."

That night a man returned the dog and Miss Dollinder willingly gave up the spare tire from her car.

PLAN TO BUILD NEW SEWER LINE

City Arranges to Build $7,000 Job to Relieve Congestion In Industrial District.

Plans are being made for the construction of a new $7,000 interceptor sewer to relieve a congested condition in the sanitary sewer system in the industrial section of the city.

City Engineer W. C. Statler said today that the city planned to construct the new interceptor from Dorian and Fourth streets near the Westinghouse plant to Rocky Fork creek by way of Purdy street.

Statler explained that this sewer would cut across several other branches of the sanitary system which have been overloaded.

The city engineer said that the city would have to pay about $3,000 of the total cost and that conferences were being held to get Works Progress Administration funds for hiring laborers.

MT. CARMEL, Ill.—(U.P.)—Freeman Annis, chairman of the local draft board, lists this as the most unusual offer presented to his board since the selective service act was passed.

J. G. Ingersoll of Mt. Carmel told the draft board that if a married man with children wanted to go into the service, but was unable to provide for his dependents, Ingersoll would be glad to take the man's job for the duration and turn over half the weekly check to the dependents.

Where They Swim at Y Camp

With more than 20 Mansfield boys already registered for summer camp periods at Y. M. C. A. Camp Nelson Dodd, Louis Jisa, camp committee chairman, today urged boys desiring to attend to sign up at Y headquarters as soon as possible. Registrations for the first camp period, June 28-July 10, close Monday. Jisa said that there is still room for 12 boys in this period. Although no deadline has been set yet for the second period from July 12 to 24, Jisa urged early registration since the quota of 35 boys is already half full. Shown above is the camp's large swimming pool where boys will receive instruction in swimming and life saving. Other activities on the camp program include canoeing, boating, nature study, softball, tennis, hiking and first aid classes. To attend camp a boy must be at least 10 years of age before the opening of school next September. E. V. Donaldson, Ohio boys work secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will direct camp activities for the summer.

DEM WINS GOP PRIZE

GRANITE CITY, Ill. — (U.P.) — Probate Clerk Joseph Healey, Republican nominee for reelection, offered an attendance prize of $2 in defense stamps for a social meeting sponsored by the Security Benefit association. Prize was won by Carl Heaton, his Democratic opponent in the election.

PULL BONER

TULSA, Okla. — (U.P.) — Three Tulsa policemen stopped and questioned an ensign of the naval recruiting office here, convinced that his uniform resembled that of a German air officer.

The officers were told it was none of their business and were called "on the carpet" by the chief of police an hour later for abusing a naval officer. The ensign, however, agreed to drop the matter.

UNIQUE 'WINGED ARMY' AIDS UNITED STATES WAR EFFORT

(By International News Service)

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — A "winged army" is busily flying over Alabama fields working for Uncle Sam.

This army has nothing to do with the Southeastern Air Corps Training center and the "tiny pilots" are receiving no instructions in "flight"—

For this flying force is an army of bees.

"Not only are the tiny bees producing honey, an all important substitute for the rationed sugar, but they are serving as agents for pollination of crops, particularly orchards and truck gardens," Haygood Paterson, Alabama's commissioner of agriculture stated.

The agriculture commissioner pointed out that although Alabama's bees produce only a comparatively small amount of honey, thousands of pounds of the tiny "winged workers," valued in excess of $175,000 yearly, are raised and shipped to the vast honey producing areas of the northern United States and Canada.

Beekeepers in Alabama have been asked to make a special effort to produce more package bees and queens to replenish those lost during the severe winters of the north.

"Alabama's bees are especially hardy and become easily adapted to the climate of the northern United States and Canada and are making an excellent record in honey producing in that area," Paterson stated.

"They are excellent agents for pollination and do an untold amount of good as they flit from blossom to blossom, tree to tree, and field to field," he said. "Crops would be seriously reduced if it wasn't for the bees."

The "tiny pilots" should have the thanks of every American for they, through their untiring efforts, will give Americans a food with which to make the sweets that the rationing of sugar will undoubtedly curtail. Not only that, but the honey they produce will give to the United Nations a food high in health value.

These "winged warriors," droning tirelessly over Alabama, are getting their basic and primary training in this state and will be sent north for their "final graduate work" before being commissioned into the service of humanity and turned loose to "do their bit" to win the war.

THE WAR TODAY

By DE WITT M'KENZIE
(Wide World War Analyst)

The violence of the fighting in the various theaters of combat, as the Axis strains to get its war-machine into top speed for a killing, is producing the usual heavy fluctuations of emotion among the Allied peoples, and for no vital reason there has been a fair amount of gloom knocking about the last day or two.

Without possible doubt we're going to get a lot more of the sweat and flood and tears British Prime Minister Churchill promised long ago, but there are no present signs that we shall see anything worse than the war already has produced.

The Allies are encountering some setbacks, but from my observation post the conflict has appeared to be moving along fairly well for our side. We've taken some hard knocks and handed out some but, after all, war is that way, you know. Thus it was with some concern that one read Premier Curtin's glooming warning to Australians yesterday.

Mr. Curtin said that the news from Libya wasn't good and that the Russian situation held dangers for the Allied cause.

This was particularly disturbing since a fortnight earlier the premier declared:

"I defy the enemy to land large forces in Australia."

What could have happened in those two weeks to alter the premier's viewpoint so radically? In that time we've knocked the daylights out of the Japs at Midway and have added to this victory in the Aleutians.

The Russians have withstood all Nazi efforts to get their overdue offensive started. The great Soviet naval base of Sevastopol has held in the face of fierce attacks, and today the German dead are piled high before the defenses. The massed Hitlerian assaults in the Kharkov sector at the gateway to the Caucasus have failed to do more than dent the Bolshevist line there—and the Reds are showing the strength to counterattack.

It's true that the news from Libya isn't good. Nazi Marshal Rommel—one of the great generals of this war—has staged a spectacular offensive which today is threatening the important British position at the port of Tobruk. However, the Allied forces have been in much worse position in Libya before this. Tobruk has been in Axis hands, and even if it should fall now, it's not a matter of despair.

Rommel's gains appear due in large degree to numerical superiority in tanks. However, the British position may be eased by tank reinforcements which they reportedly received as the result of the sensational dash of the big convoy to Tobruk this week.

The movement of this convoy and another to Malta precipitated a great air-sea battle in which Yankee airmen played a mgnificent part. The damage suffered by the British is admitted to be "considerable." But the Italian fleet took another terrific beating.

The British suffered losses, but they had the strength and courage to ram the noses of their convoys into such a powerful Axis position.

There undoubtedly are many grave dangers ahead of us, and the crisis calls for every ounce of effort we can give, but taking the situation as a whole there's nothing to cause despair. Personally I like the line given to the French people yesterday by old Marshal Petain

"I do not lose faith."

WATCHES OHIO RIVER BLACKOUT IN CAP PLANE

Writer Reports Success of Test at Steubenville, Nearby Areas.

By EDWIN B. GREENWALD
(By Associated Press)

STEUBENVILLE — Steubenville and its steel-making neighbors cloaked themselves from the skies last night in a virtually total blackout.

It was the first major experiment in an Ohio industrial area, and men of experience said that an invading force flying at bomber altitude never would have seen it.

We soared over the region through it all in a civil air patrol plane, and the blackout was so total that you weren't sure whether you looked down upon a community of people or rows of rural hedges.

From 3,000 feet aloft there were visible, after a time, only three points of illumination: two big Bessemer furnaces glowing at Mingo Junction two miles south, the lighted town of Toronto five miles north, and a steel plant in Weirton across the Ohio river.

Otherwise, it was utter darkness in Steubenville, Wierton, Follansbee and Wellsburg. Not a hint of light came from the busy Steubenville mills of the Weirton Steel and Wheeling Steel, nor from any across the broad Ohio in West Virginia except the one.

Active steel furnaces were shielded successfully, but how this was accomplished was not disclosed.

The river itself, a source of some worry to defense officials, faintly reflected a very pale moon. Except for this obscure gleam, the river was not a telltale landmark.

Col. Robert S Harsch of the army's fifth corps area was well pleased.

"It was pretty close to 100 per cent," he said, "and I know the people of this area feel safer after this fine demonstration."

He estimated that 100,000 persons lived in the area affected.

Trains were darkened as they went through the district, river boats pulled to shore, river lights and danger signals were turned low. For more than 15 minutes a row of billboards stood out like beacons in the northwest section of the city, but finally were blackened. The only incident reported was the smashing of a store sign in the downtown area after civilian defense police said they were unable to turn it off.

USO Fund Boosted as County Townships Send in Reports.

Contributions from several Richland county townships raised the U. S. O. war fund to $9,000 today and workers' reports showed $500 as the results of yesterday's house to house solicitation.

The work in the townships has been very gratifying," Mrs. John H. Pierce, chairman of the workers, said today, adding that the bulk of the township solicitation is still to be reported.

Jefferson township added $73 to the fund today while workers in other areas were urged by the U. S. O. president, George H. Smith, to complete solicitations as soon as possible.

Indiana Centenarian Likes Bright Colors and Corncob Pipe.

SALEM, Ind. —(INS)— Several hundred friends and relatives of Mrs. Rachel Gilstrap Johnson will gather Sunday in a grove near Mrs. Johnson's home to celebrate her one hundredth birthday anniversary. There will be enough cake baked to feed 500.

Mrs. Johnson, who likes youthful clothes (red being her preference in color) and smokes a corncob pipe, still is fairly active. She carries a bucket of water daily from a nearby pump to her two-room cottage where she lives alone and performs ordinary household work.

She said today she would wear a special frock for the celebration. It will be black—but trimmed in red.

WAR SPENDING BILLION A WEEK

Budget Director Sees U. S. Expenditures at 70 Billions Next Year.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Budget Director Harold D. Smith revealed today that America's arms factories are rolling so fast now that government war expenditures have climbed to approximately $1,000,000,000 per week.

"That shows," he said in an interview, "how we are going into action against the Axis."

The accelerated pace of war production, Smith continued, "assures our hitting on the nose our estimate of $28,000,000,000 of war expenditures for the fiscal year which ends this month."

He said the pace also made more probable his estimate that $70,000,000,000 would be spent for war in the coming fiscal year.

Treasury expenditures for war purposes alone, Smith explained, have climbed steadily from $409,400,000 in the week before Pearl Harbor to $944,100,000 last week.

The $1,000,000,000 a week pace not only is the biggest spending figure in American history, but it also overshadows every other belligerent's costs.

Not counting about $6,000,000,000 of other federal expenses that have to be paid for, the current fiscal year's war costs will be about twice as big as all federal tax revenues, estimated by Smith at $12,700,000,000. Sales of war bonds and regular government securities finance the balance.

RAPS 'EXPERTS'

Congressman Charges Washington Overrun By Inexperienced Men.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R., Ohio, charged before the house interstate commerce committee yesterday that "Washington is being overrun with so-called experts who still aren't dry behind the ears."

Brown said the prevalence of many such young men in expert jobs in Washington "is due to a combination of nepotism, political patronage, war hysteria and just plain lack of common sense."

NURSES HAVE 'WONDERFUL TIME' IN SOUTH PACIFIC WAR ZONE

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — American nurses who are setting up base hospitals in the southern Pacific war zone are "having a wonderful time" roughing it, although sometimes mistaken for "refugees" from New York, according to their letters received here.

The letters were made public today by Col. Julia Flikke, superintendent of the army nurse corps.

From an undisclosed station Lieut Elizabeth A. Wright of Weston, W. Va., wrote:

"There are so very few American girls in comparison to the men that when a man sees one of us he is quite happy to give us a ride just to have someone to talk to. * * *

"The further into the jungle we go the more difficult it will be to keep getting the news . . . We live in large pyramided tents with five girls to a tent. We wear rubber boots when it rains, and it does most every day. We wash in the creek, and have tomato cans in our tents that we use to sponge off with in the morning. "Our water is chlorinated and in 20-gallon Lister bags, which hang in the trees."

"So, as the sun is blazing away days, and the mosquitoes torpedo us at night thus side of the world says to your side of the world—keep buying bonds so we can have supplies to keep the enemy off. Courage alone is not sufficient."

Burton said he believed boys had started the fire with some kerosene which had been stored nearby.

A 40-pound piece of sparkling quartz which looks as if it could have been hand made is on display in The News-Journal window. It was brought to Mansfeild from the Crystal mines near Hot Springs, Ark., by Lee Parcenue and his son, Paul, of 191 Park avenue east. Scores of perfectly formed crystal prisms protrude from the rocks as if they had been cut and stuck into a mass of red mud. Formed by nature, the crystals are nearly as hard as diamonds and will cut glass.

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Governor Bricker, in a nation-wide radio address last night, said the war effort has enlisted 112,000 workers in Ohio industry since Jan. 1 and surveys indicate that 107,000 additional workers will be needed in the state's war production plants by Aug. 1.

VINSON SAYS U. S. TO KEEP ON BUILDING

Appears Before Committee Seeking Go-Ahead on Expansion Measure.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Continuing construction of battleships was described by Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) of the house naval committee today as "essential insurance" against a possiblity that future carrier losses might turn sea warfare into an "old fashioned slugging match."

He offered that observation in making it clear that the day of the big battlewagon was not done, despite the havoc wrought against them recently by torpedo planes, and that the navy intended to continue work on batteships already started.

At the same time Vinson reiterated his contention that the aircraft carrier had become the "backbone of the fleet" as he went before the rules committee seeking a go-ahead signal for an $8,550,000,000 fleet expansion measure which emphasizes floating aerial striking strength.

In a formal report, the house listed 1,009,245 tons of fighting ships built since 1934 now in service and 2,646,606 tons more under construction.

Passage of the expansion bill, designed to double the size of the fleet, would add to that total 500,000 tons of aircraft carriers, 500,000 tons of light and heavy destroyers, and 900,000 tons of destroyers and destroyer escort vessels.

In addition, it would provide for 1,000 smaller craft to combat submarines. For the first time, the committee offered a breakdown, saying it would build 400 steel subchasers, 200 wooden sub chasers, 200 torpedo boats and 200 other patrol craft.

It informed congress that the navy "is fully alive to the major, if not decisive role that aircraft carriers and the planes based thereon are playing in the present war," and said the navy planned to concentrate on immediate carrier construction.

Hits Petitions of Bricker's First Primary Opponent

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Herbert Hoover of Akron, who would be Gov. John M. Bricker's first opponent in a gubernatorial primary, faced a double threat of elimination from the race today.

A protest against Hoover's candidacy petitions was filed yesterday and attaches in the office of Secretary of State John E. Sweeney said election board reports showed Hoover may lack the required 1,000 valid signatures.

The protest was filed by Byron Wade, chairman of the Mahoning county Republican committee and deputy clerk of the county election board. He charged many petition signatures were not made in the presence of petition circulators and that others were not those of Republicans.

Wade also asserted that Hoover's first name was not "Herbert" but "Marion" and that Herbert Hoover is not a registered Republican voter in Akron. Hoover previously sought political office under the name "M. Herbert Hoover."

Sweeney was asked to set a date for hearing of the protest.

Vermont Troop Hopes To Play Organ In Tokyo

HATTIESBURG, Miss.—(INS)—A Vermont regiment stationed at Camp Shelby has a unique possession—a portable foot-pump organ which has already seen service overseas, and may very well do so again.

Col. Julius Estey presented the instrument to the regiment in 1910. When they were transferred to Eagle Pass, Tex., during the Mexican border crisis of 1916, the "squeeze box" went along It was used for church services and group singing.

In 1918 the Vermonters were enrolled in the 26th Division and went to France. Along went the organ. After the armistce it was brought back in triumph, remodeled, and given a "furlough."

Now it's back in service, having already been taken along on last summer's maneuvers.

Its next assignment, the boys in the regiment say, is to blare out the Star-pangled Banner when they ride down the main streets of Tokyo.

COAST GUARD POLICES LAKE ERIE WATERS

Anti-Sabotage Patrol Makes Daily Inspection of Waterfront.

Editors Note: This is the second of two exclusive stories on how the United States Coast Guard is taking anti-sabotage precautions to protect millions of dollars worth of boats and lakefront property.

By JACK H. BIRNBAUM

CLEVELAND—The coast guard cutter left the mouth of the Cuyahoga river and headed west along the shore of Lake Erie in one of its port inspection patrols, giving an International News Service reporter an eye-witness close-up of what goes on today in the coast guard anti-sabotage detail.

What do they look for? The three men on the patrol boat and the ensign from the captain of the port's office said, "anything suspicious.'

It is difficult to determine what is suspicious if one is not an habitue of the waterfront, but these men who see the same sights and the same boats sometimes three times a day on their rounds get to know which boats "belong" and which ones appear suddenly.

Any power boat venturing nearer than 300 feet from restricted areas is given a thorough check in addition to a warning to "keep your distance." Fishermen in power boats strung along the lakefront even where there would be no opportunity for sabotage, are investigated and asked for identification cards.

The cards are yellow and bear the bearer's signature, picture and fingerprints. While not difficult to obtain, there are some mighty personal questions the coast guard wants answered before issuing them.

Cleveland's waterfront is alive with war activity. Cavernous ore boats, lying low in the water, wait their turn to be unloaded by the huge rigs. The rigs are giant scoops able to gorge 10,000 tons of ore from a boat and dump it into waiting freight cars in a matter of three hours. Each scoop has a 17-ton capacity.

While returning east along the shore, the pilot noticed a flash on one of the rigs and the four scoops hung motionless in mid-air. The cutter sped to investigate and the trouble turned out to be a blown fuse or breaker switch. The fact that something did happen, and the time of day, went down in the ship's log.

The log is perhaps the most important inarticulate aid of the coast guard. From its dry notations, the officers who analyze the daily reports can determine whether just such incidents as that related are merely "incidents" or whether they have a deeper significance.

Other war activity in Cleveland was revealed in a fleet of mine sweepers and other ships being built for the navy by a lakefront shipbuilding company. Completely armed and camouflaged in their war paint, they sail into their slips and await orders.

The next morning they are gone. Where? That's a military secret.

The cutter continued eastward until it had pased two power and utility plants. Satisfied that the shore appearance of the plants was satisfactory, the crew turned its attention to the fishing boats and called it a day.

These men, duplicated in each of the vital shipping centers on the lakes, constitute one of the nation's strongest and most important aids in keeping the United States free from sabotage.

Another force, which numbers well over 1,000, according to Security Officer Lt. Ellis Gordon stands armed on some 400 lake carriers, bound on war business, and passenger steamers.

Not only do they see that the precious cargoes of iron ore, coke and limestone are kept speeding to the hungry maws of the steel furnaces but in their hands and wits lie the responsibility of safeguarding the waterways through which these cargoes pass.

An armed guard is stationed in the pilot house and another in the engine room of the freighter as it approaches restricted waterways, such as canals, locks or narrow rivers. The ships cannot proceed through those waterways until the guards on the ship give certain signals to army stations at those points.

Satisfied with the signals, the army men allow the boats to pass. One of the guards is stationed in the engine room to see that orders given by the pilot are followed by the engineer below.

It is less than two months ago that the coast guard stationed the armed guards aboard the vessels, and in that time the guards have grown from raw youths to experienced watchdogs of property and public welfare.

AWARD LATE

WORCESTER, Mass. — (U.P.) — Twenty-three years ago, Sydney J. Johnson helped fellow engineers in the 1st Division clean out a German machine gun nest in the Soissons sector of France during World War 1.

For "conspicuous gallantry" in his action, he has just received the Silver Star. He expects to receive soon the Order of the Purple Heart for a wound received later action.

DONATES LEGAL ADVICE

AUSTIN, Tex.—(U.P.)—University Texas law students, assisted by ained attorneys, are providing ee legal services for soldiers and ilors stationed in Texas. The law hool has operated a "legal aid nic" for persons unable to pay r legal services for several years.

DOWN AGAIN

Sales Tax Receipts In Sharp Decline Over June, 1941.

Sales tax receipts in Richland county for the first week of June nose-dived to 46 per cent of collections for the corresponding week last year, the state treasurer's office report showed today.

The county's retail sales produced only $10,654 during the first week of this month. Receipts for the opening week of June last year amounted to $19,815.

Collections so far this year are lagging $72,188 behind the figures covering the corresponding period in 1941. Receipts now amount to $231,282.

Less than a half dozen Ohio counties, most of them with army ordnance plants or industries producing large quantities of war materials, showed increased tax receipts for the first week of this month.

The Ruhr mines produce three-fourths of Germany's coal.

Our Provident Loan state softball champions are becoming just a bit worried. Their losing streak is getting them down.

Jean Tipul called up this morning to say: "We lost again last night at the state hospital in Columbus to the J. & K. Shoes 3-0. I just don't know what's the matter with us, but we don't seem to click any more.

"But we will, I betcha, when that state tournament comes up late in the summer down at Columbus."

I think maybe she knew what she was talking about. Last year the Providents weren't doing so good for a championship team either, but when they went to the tournament at Youngstown the smart money was on the Mansfield Provident Loans.

One girl from Toledo expressed it this way: "When the chips are down, those Mansfield kids can really go to town. A great tournament team they are, whether they win another ball game all summer or not."

And that's the way it turned out. The teams that had been beating the Providents all summer just weren't in there when the championship was decided.

* * *

We may not have any spectator sports in Mansfield this summer, but the participant sports are doing all right. The golf courses are getting a big play, the softball leagues are running better than ever, and the swimming pools are crowded.

And all this in spite of the cold, rainy weather we've been having.

Out at Liberty park, Paul Snyder reports more business in the first two days of the swimming season than he had in two weeks last August.

Al Vogel and his wife left Saturday night for a three-weeks' fishing trip in Canada, but before he left he arranged for a complete overhauling of the Colony bowling alleys.

Chief improvement is the removal of the big scoreboards and the installation of smaller boards. Now we'll be able to see how the match is coming along on the next alley without walking clear out on Third street.

Westies Set Run Record

Defeat Art Rattans By 26 to 3 Margin.

Westinghouse softballers set a new run record for the season last evening when they swamped Art Rattan 26 to 3. Aid Geiger let the Rattans down with six hits.

Ohio Power eked out an 8 to 7 win over Local 1405. Humphryes nosed Local 758 in eleven innings 13 to 12, and Tappans defeated Hughes-Keenan 8 to 4.

Cardinals Ride Wave Of 7 Wins

Invade Brooklyn For Crucial Five Games.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

THE St. Louis Cardinals, riding the crest of a seven-game winning streak, move into Brooklyn today for a five-game series with the Dodgers that may throw the National league pennant struggle back into a battle royal.

Through quirks of the weather these two fierce rivals have met only four times thus far and of these games the Redbirds have won three—proving to the satisfaction of St. Louis, at least, that the Dodgers' 4½ game lead is an uncertain bulwark.

The Cardinals warmed up for today's important tussle (a twilight affair) by white-washing the New York Giants, 3-0, yesterday on the five hit hurling of big Mort Cooper, who pitched no-hit ball till the seventh inning. It was Cooper's fourth shutout of the season.

The Dodgers showed no qualms at the approach of their challengers, turning back the Chicago Cubs, 5-1. Kirby Higbe pitched four-hit ball for his sixth victory and would have had a shutout except for a homer by Rip Russell in the second stanza.

It was a pitcher's day in the majors.

At Detroit Paul (Dizzy) Trout, who had been beaten five times in a row, hurled a five-hitter to hand the world champion New York Yankees their first shutout of the season as the Tigers won, 1 to 0.

Phil Marchildon, the strong righthander of the Philadelphia Athletics, also ended a five-game losing streak by pitching five-hit ball to beat the Chicago White Sox, 4-3.

Elden Auker stopped a nine-game winning streak for the Boston Red Sox and a seven-game losing streak for the St. Louis Browns by hurling a six-hit 6-3 victory.

The Cleveland Indians nosed out the Washington Senators, 5-4, in a night game, with Ken Keltner driving in the tying and winning runs on a seventh inning single with the bases loaded.

The Cincinnati Reds captured both ends of a doubleheader at Boston, 4-2 and 4-3, the latter game going 11 innings. Paul Derringer and Ray Starr were the Red hurlers.

The Pittsburgh Pirates bunched their hits for two three-run innings to down the Phils, 6-1, in a night game.

BILLY TALBERT ADVANCES IN JOUST

ST. LOUIS — (U.P.) — Top-seeded William Talbert of Cincinnati led the favorites into the third round of the national clay court tennis championships today after an easy triumph over William Culver, of Grand Rapids, Mich.

Talbert scored a 6-3, 6-0 conquest yesterday as the first round, postponed twice because of weather, got under way.

Indians Wins Foto Finish

Make Habit of Beating Washington That Way.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The Cleveland Indians and the Washington Senators have been playing photo-finish baseball most of the season —but the Tribe has been dominating the picture.

Washington today sought its second triumph in nine starts against the Tribe, which has captured most of its games from the Senators by narrow margins. Last night's 5 to 4 Tribe triumph was a pretty fair sample.

The Indians have snatched four games by a one-run margin, another contest by two runs, and two others by seven or more tallies. Washington's sole scalp was a 7 to 1 triumph. The Indians have won all the nocturnal games, last night's being the third.

But last night, as in many of the other battles, the Tribe had to sprint from behind to win. Jake Early hit a home run in the second inning, and the Senators got three more markers off Jim Bagby in the third before he went to the showers with only one man out.

From then on Washington was hand-cuffed, Al Milnar allowing one hit in four frames and, when he retired for a pinch-hitter in the seventh session, Tom Ferrick finished the game, permitting only a brace of hits in two innings.

The Indians cut down the four run handicap by pushing over single markers in the fourth and sixth innings, but were still on the short end of a 4 to 2 score in the stretch session.

Lou Boudreau opened the home half by fanning. Ray Mack singled and took third on Otto Denning's hit to right. Chubby Dean batted for Milnar and walked to fill the bases, but retired for Pinch-runner Russ Peters.

Mack brought home the third score when Roy Weatherly grounded out, and Oris Hockett was given an intentional pass to load the sacks again.

This brought up Kenny Keltner, who drove a single to left, plating both Denning and Peters with the deciding runs.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Has your softball team played a "magazine game" yet? . . . The idea comes from Louisville's Bonnycastle club and it sounds like a swell way to make a big little contribution to the armed forces. . . . The club merely established an admission price for its Saturday night doubleheaders of "one or more" copies of a current issue of a good magazine. . . . First night's receipts were 2,149 pieces of reading matter which went to the air base unit at Bowman Field. . . . Bonnycastle and other members of its league will look after Fort Knox and other nearby units, but Chairman George Mercker points out there are an estimated 500,000 softball teams in the United States and plenty of other army camps.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Flem Hall, Ft. Worth Star-Telegram: "If the professional coaches of college athletics continue to pour into the services at their present pace, the volunteer 'grandstand coaches' (unappreciated in other years) may have to get off their second guess seats and show what they can do on the field with a first guess.

SECOND GUESS.

Playing a round of golf during a recent alumni outing at Cleveland, Frank Leahy, Notre Dame coach, cut locse a drive that made a three-point landing on the noggin of a player emerging from the woods ahead. . . . Frank rushed up only to find his dazed victim offering apologies, thinking he had nearly beaned Frank. . . . Leahy then escorted the gent to a nearby pump and suggested that he soak his handkerchief with cold water and apply it to the back of his head. . . . "If that doesn't help," said Frank, "think you ought to go to the hospital for an examination." . . . "That's good advice," replied the victim. "I ought to know, too, because I'm a doctor."

BLANTON RECOVERS FROM OPERATION

BYRN MAWR, Pa. — (INS) — Darrell E. "Cy" Blanton, former Phils pitcher, today was recovering from an operation for the removal of an abscess which developed on his right side as a result of a training camp injury last March.

Cy, who has been in the hospital for four weeks, said he did not intend to pitch again this season, but hoped to line up with a Major league club in 1934.

Shaughnessy Coaches Army

Talks Over Plans With Officers.

COLLEGE PARK, Md — (AP) — Clark Shaughnessy, University of Maryland football coach and the leading advocate of the famous "T" formation, has emerged as a likely choice for the job of handling the western army all-star gridiron team next fall.

Shaughnessy, former Stanford mentor, said he had discussed the proposal with war department officers but that no agreement had been reached.

"The army's plans are not complete, and until they are they don't need a coach," Shaughnessy said. "If the army has definite plans for two service teams I'd like to contribute to the work, but if it's to be a hit or miss proposition I don't see any sense to it."

An aide in the Washington office of Colonel John Thomas Taylor, director of army emergency relief, said Shaughnessy's appointment was "possible." He added, however, that the army's plan for two service teams still was in the tentative stage and that it would be a week or ten days before details would be disclosed.

The war department announced recently that it hopes to sponsor an east and west army all-star team next fall. Wallace Wade, Duke university coach, has been prominently mentioned for the eastern coaching job.

Dutch Harrison Takes Over Where Hagen, Armour Quit

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Thumbing through the notebook, and wrapping up the loose ends of the Inverness four-ball tournament!

Remember the wise-cracks for which veterans Walter Hagen and Tommy Armour were so famous? Well, there's a new humorist of the links on the way up, and if you get around the Mahoning Valley Open at Youngstown, June 26, 27 and 28, don't fail to be in his gallery.

He is E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, the long, lean, lanky, loose-jointed lad from Little Rock, Ark., with a drawl as slow as that proverbial Arkansas train, and a walk that resembles a farmer following a plow.

A sample of his chatting with the gallery:

On the seventh hole at Inverness, Dutch dropped his second shot five feet from the pin with a 120-yard approach—for an almost certain birdie. He grinned from ear to ear, when, with a plop, plop, plop, Partner Denny Shute and opponents Byron Nelson and Jimmy Thomson put their approaches within 18 inches of the stick, making Harrison's effort look like a poor shot.

The Arkansas philosopher turned to the crowd, spread his hands in a gesture of futility, and drawled:

"These guys make me blink my eyes faster than a frog in a hailstorm!"

Fred Corcoran, tournament manager of the P. G. A., long-distanced Hollywood from the Inverness press room, pulled Bing Crosby off the set, and arranged a benefit golf match at the Toledo layout for sometime in July. Crosby probably will team up with Byron Nelson, Inverness pro, against Jimmy Demaret and Mickey Rooney, Corcoran said.

The Inverness tournament committee isn't certain it will hold another invitational until the war is over—but the four-day 1942 event showed no ill effects from the conflict.

The professionals took down $7,650 in prizes, and other expenses probably ran the cost to over $10,000—but close to 17,000 persons witnessed the play despite the weather, and you couldn't get in the park for less than a buck. Add the heavy meal and bar bills run up by the customers, and it looks as if the club did all right on the financial side.

The boys in the locker room were talking about who should win the Hale America event at Chicago, and the consensus was that Byron Nelson was the guy.

"He," most of the boys said, "is the most consistent golfer that ever lived."

An old timer, who remembered the 1920 National Open at Inverness, in which the two Britishers, Ted Ray and Harry Vardon, were the stars (Ray winning), disputed the consistency angle.

* * *

"Harry Vardon," the veteran said, "was the most consistent of them all. Why, he was so consistent that when they played two rounds the same day, Harry had trouble in the afternoon keeping his ball out of the divot holes he dug that morning."

C. C. N. Y. GIVES UP FOOTBALL FOR WAR

NEW YORK — (INS) — City College of New York which immortalized the famous yell—"Give a cheer for City"—today was set to abandon football for the duration.

Acting Director of Athletics Anthony S. Orlando said that the football picture at City was very cloudy because of financial and transportation problems combined with the expected loss of Coach Benny Friedman, who is seeking a naval commission.

Teter Makes His Farewell Bow

Ready to answer his country's call to armed service on a moment's notice, Lucky Teter admitted today that his automobile and motorcycle stunting Hell Driver program at the Ashland Fairgrounds Sunday afternoon might be his last for the duration of the war.

"I'm ready to join the armed forces when my number comes up," the world's champion daredevil said as he prepared for the gala "farewell" program of nerve-wracking automotive stunts. "That day may come any time now, so I'll be shooting the works next Sunday to give my friends enough thrills to hold them until the war's close."

Becomes Mitt Game Capital

Cleveland Draws Fans For Boxing Contests.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—If the veteran Chicago promotor, Nate Lewis knows what he's talking about, Cleveland is becoming boxing's capital for the duration of the war.

Seconding the nomination, Matchmaker Larry Atkins pointed out today that before a dollar clanked into the till for next Tuesday night's all-star card here, purses totalling $52,000 were guaranteed the ten headliners and eight preliminary scrappers.

Mello Bettina, undefeated in 32 starts as a heavyweight, and Harry Bobo, the Pittsburgh Paralyzer, were the first out-of-town scrappers to open training. The hometown rivals, light-heavies Jimmy Bivens and Joey Maxim, have been at it for some time.

* * *

Promoter Lewis paid Atkins a quick visit this week and declared night blackouts on both coasts and a wealth of good fighting were combining to make the lake talent in and around Cleveland were combining to make the lake city ringdom's capital for the duration.

Atkins also has some ideas on the subject and they read like this, from left to right.

Recent Cleveland cards featuring Bob Pastor drew $52,000 againts Lem Franklin and $48,000 against Bivens, but the New York gates were only around $20,000 each when Pastor took on Tami Mauriello and Gus Lesnevich.

Bettina and Altus pulled only 3,000 customers into the 23,000 seats of Chicago stadium recently;

* * *

Cleveland's last 11 fight shows have drawn a gross of $274,000 —"pretty good for a town that drew only eight and ten thousand for the first two and where, using an indoor arena, we had only 13,000 seats to do it in;" and

While five super-drooper bouts arel ined up for Tuesday's Cleveland News Bomber-for-MacArthur show in Cleveland stadium, New York's last card was three weeks ago and nothing is lined up there or in Chicago.

The other headliners for the 70-round outdoor cards, which the promotors hope will lure 30,000 customers, are Anton Christoforidis against Johnny Colan, Franklin versus Sergeant Joe Muscato of Buffalo, and Cleveland's Harry Teany with Maxie Shapiro.

Patched Brewers Defeat Millers

(By Associated Press)

Milwaukee's American Association league leaders started an eastern division road trip today with a patched line-up, but the Brewers weren't particularly disturbed about it.

That same patched up lineup—boasting only one regular outfielder—staged a three-run rally in the ninth innng last night to turn what looked like a sure defeat into victory as they conquered Minneapolis, 8-7.

Outfielder Ted Gullic was the only regular in the Brewers' outer garden, Hal Peck, Bill Norman and Frank Secory being on the shelf because of injuries.

The Miller-Brewer clash was the only game in the league yesterday, although Indianapolis played an exhibition tilt with Mickey Cochrane's Great Lakes nine. The Sailors won 7-1.

Salesbook Edges Seamless Tube

SHELBY — Shelby Salesbook company nosed out the Ohio Seamless Tube company, 5 to 3, Wednesday night, to take the lead of the Shelby Softball league. It was the third consecutive win for the Salesbook and the first defeat for the Tube company.

The game was tied up to the sixth inning when the Salesbook scored three runs to take the lead 4 to 1.

The Mansfield Provident company will play Autocall Plant 2 team at 6:15 p. m. today in a postponed game at Municipal water company diamond on North Gamble street.

CHARLESTON LOSES TO SPRINGFIELD

CANTON— (AP) —Erie, driving hard to catch first-place Charleston, pounded out five hits for three runs in the ninth inning to defeat Canton 5-4 in a Mid-Atlantic league game last night.

The Sailors moved within two games of the loop leaders as last-place Springfield toppled Charleston 2 to 0, Tom Astbury's homer with one on in the first accounting for the tallies. Dayton and Zanesville split a doubleheader, Dayton taking the opener 2 to 0 and the Cubs the night cap 7 to 4.

PAM—"Hannah!" By A. W. Brewerton

OH, HE MUTTERED A LOT, BUT I COULDN'T MAKE ANY SENSE OF IT—EXCEPT ONCE, I THOUGHT I CAUGHT THE NAME HANNAH!

HANNAH! HUM— ANY LAST NAME?
NO, SIR, MR. GORDON, JUST HANNAH! THEN, ONCE I DISTINCTLY HEARD HIM SAY, "AD IN THE DAILY TOPIC"
"AD IN THE DAILY TOPIC!" ODD! AND NO ONE'S INQUIRED ABOUT HIM?
NO, AN OLD GENTLEMAN, WHO CAME TO SEE ANOTHER PATIENT HERE. HEARD ABOUT THIS POOR FELLOW AND WAS MUCH INTERESTED
ABOUT THEN, PAM—
WONDER WHEN DAVID WILL CALL AGAIN? I'M SORT OF SKITTISH ABOUT OPENING THAT ENVELOPE, SURELY WOULD LIKE TO HAVE HIM DO IT.

WIFE STABBED 7 TIMES, DIES; MATE JAILED

Wounded Woman Collapses on Yard at Home; Jealousy Blamed in Case.

mortally wounded woman attempted to call an ambulance to take her to the hospital, but she was unable to complete the call before she became ill, the mother told officers. Mrs. Johnson then staggered into the yard and collapsed.

Reid told the sheriff that Johnson yelled to his wife: "Remember what you promised me in Cleveland" after the two had gone to the kitchen.

Sheriff Robinson said the Johnsons had gone to Cleveland last week-end and he interpreted the husband's statement as meaning that they had agreed to go back together after returning to Mansfield. The Johnsons were married in 1936.

The victim was the daughter of John Richardson, known in the north end of the city as "Steel Mill Shorty." He died about three years ago after being hit in the head with a brick, the sheriff said.

Mrs. Johnson's body was taken to the Geiger Funeral home where an autopsy was to be performed today. The sheriff and Prosecutor O'Donnell questioned witnesses most of the night and continued their investigation today before filing charges in the case.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday from the St. Paul Reformed church, southwest of here, with Rev. Margard officiating. Burial will be made in Oakland cemetery in this city.

INCREASE SUGAR STAMP RATIONS

Stamp No. 4 Good for 1 Pound, Next Two Can Purchase 2 Pounds Under Ruling.

could buy a year's allotment of sugar in advance. The present allotment of one-half pound of sugar a week for each person would not be changed.

OPA officials said that the periods of validity of subsequent stamps would be announced sometime before Aug. 22.

While there is a possibility that the present sugar ration may be slightly increased, officials said the serious shipping situation, combined with the demand of Great Britain, Russia and other nations, is more likely to cause sugar quotas to remain on the present basis.

The rationing of sugar, however, has resulted in big sugar companies being forced to hold the domestic crop in warehouses. This is said to be both difficult and expensive. This situation has been relieved in the past because housewives usually would buy enough sugar to last several weeks.

Meanwhile in Washington, Rep. Stephen M. Young, D., of Cleveland, charged in a speech printed in the congressional record that the Office of Price Administration in Ohio has adopted a "public-be-damned" policy.

Young called on Administrator Leon Henderson to "crack down" on subordinates.

"Complaint has come to me from constituents throughout Ohio that they were compelled to wait sometimes hours in order to procure sugar rationing cards," Young stated.

In Morrow county, according to Young, the OPA issued cards only on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a. m. to 11, and 1 p. m. to 3.

"Do these bureaucrats resort to this sort of procedure to exasperate people and cause them to question the wisdom of sugar rationing?" he asked.

"It apparently does not matter to the high salaried administrator and his staff who are enjoying fancy salaries that thousands of families need sugar now to can fruit which is ripened."

JUNIOR MOTHERS SPONSOR PARTY

SHELBY—Junior Mothers' club sponsored a benefit card party Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Howard Skiles on Glenwood drive.

The proceeds from the party will go toward purchasing equipment for the new hospital addition here.

Seven tables of cards progressed during the afternoon while 16 progressed in the evening. The committee in charge included Mrs. Robert Baker, Mrs. Stephan Peiffer and Mrs. Sidney Inscho, jr.
